Grandchildren Memories

Kori Lundquist - Grandma's love of chocolate was legendary and she always knew how to have fun and connect with the kids after all the other adults were in bed.

Alex Astle - Mowing the lawn at Grandma's was always an adventure.

Kelsey Astle - Grandma was always willing to help others and was the first person to offer up some sweets.

Kylee Astle - I loved how Grandma and Grandpa would dress up for Halloween and scare us when we came to their house.

Jayci Jackson - Grandma always had candy for us grandkids.

Nate Monson - I remember joking with Grandma who was in her 80's to ride a tandem bike, and she said yes, which was possibly the most nerve-racking experience of my life but highlighted Grandma's thrill seeking and fun personality.

Tanner Monson - I love how much Grandma loved to play games, even when she was older and slower, she was still always up for a few rounds.

Steve Astle - Once when my friend and I flew back for EFY Grandma set us up with half a dozen attractive ladies and multiple activities, totally unexpectedly! We had a pool party at a neighbors, hikes and movies all planned out upon arrival from the airport. Grandma knew how to have a good time and wanted everyone to as well.

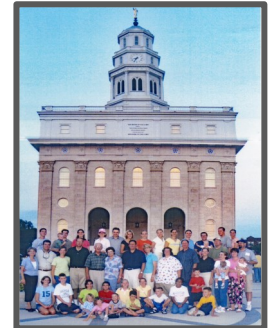

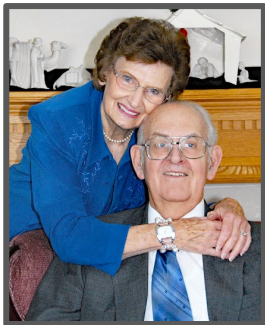

Amy Weaver - I remember grandma doing back dives off the diving board in her pool in California, whole wheat chocolate chip cookies, coming to our games and recitals, of course ice cream and the highlight of each year—camping together at New Brighton Beach. She was such a great example of love.

Sarah Nowland - Grandma was so good at being genuinely interested in my life and making me feel special and loved. She and Grandpa were the first ones to take then-boyfriend Jeremy and I out on a double date (to the BYU Creamery of course) and they were the first ones to visit me in the hospital when I had my first baby, I will cherish those memories!!

Wendy McNiven - Once Grandma had our family over to dinner somewhat unexpectedly on a Sunday. She felt bad she didn't have any ice cream for dessert and couldn't go to the store on Sunday. What did she do? She borrowed some from her neighbor and kept apologizing that she only had one flavor, plain vanilla!

Heidi Worsham - Grandma and I shared a love of dogs. She was always so kind to my dog Daisy, and taught me how to crochet so I could crochet Daisy a sweater for Christmas when I was 9.

Katie Black - Grandma's number one priority was her family, and she was the ultimate planner. From monthly family home evenings to crazy family reunions. I always knew grandma loved us. Not many people could pull off an extended family bus trip across the country ... but grandma did. And we all loved it!

Grandchildren Memories

Alyson Sharp - I remember Grandma hustling into the gym with Mandy to watch me play. It was sweet she came so often my teammates all recognized her and would say, "Aly your Grandma is here". Also, I was so impressed and proud watching Grandma and Grandpa perform as missionaries in Nauvoo -that was really special.

Michael Astle - I loved that she ALWAYS had to walk us to the door after a family gathering or any visit. She ALWAYS gave me a kiss on the cheek and told me that she loved me!

Emilee Astle - My favorite memory is when Grandma and Grandpa came to Lake Powell with us right before Grandpa died. She couldn't stand to miss out on any fun so she went cliff jumping and tubing with me fully clothed!

Jessica Mosteller - Grandma was one of the most selfless people I have ever known; she was always so concerned that everyone else was taken care of and had everything that they needed before she would even consider doing anything for herself.

Sabrina Astle - I remember making chocolate and caramel candy with Grandma in my childhood. I don't know who was more excited about the "taste testing."

Brady Astle - I admire Grandma's desire to help everyone around her. She even wanted to help me with her yard work and worried about me getting too tired doing it.

Clark Astle - I vividly remember that every time we visited Grandma, she made us Cheese Dream sandwiches. Looking back at it, they weren't anything special, but I know she put a little bit more love into them, and it made them all the more delicious to me.

Ann Rose Astle - I love how Grandma continually put everyone else first, and worried more about them, than herself. I will always remember Grandma as a great hostess.

Jami Bloomstedt - I remember for the longest time, every family Christmas party was held at Grandma and Grandpa's house. It was always filled with fun (white elephant, singing), but we always looked forward to the big Nativity production complete with musical numbers.

Michelle Nielsen - I have lots of good memories of grandma, but one of my favorite memories of her was when she taught me and some of my cousins how to make her delicious homemade fudge. I'm grateful she passed on her chocolate-loving taste buds to me!

David Monson - I remember grandma always being up for adventure and fun at family gatherings - hikes, swimming, waterslides, fishing, games, etc.

Virginia Kesler - There are many things I will remember about grandma but above all, I will cherish her consistent presence that helped me feel a sense of belonging, feel supported, and loved.

Christian Monson - Grandma always made an effort to attend my sports events and concerts while I was young. It means so much to me that she was supportive of my interests and passions.

Jenn Harry - I remember driving to California to visit and swimming in their pool and Grandma would let us play with the cool stuff in her junk drawer and we would build wooden blocks that became cities in her entryway, and she is my chocolate loving soul sister.
