DAVID B. COOK - A SUMMARY

I was asked to summarize my life for the B.L.M. Home Page, In doing this, I will wind up letting be known my real age.

I was born in Ogden, Utah, on probably a hot day, August 26, 1932, After a week, I was relocated to Layton, in surroundings that were new.

Six years later, I was hustled off to the first grade at an elementary school, This continued until I reached the twelfth, I thought I was at the end of the golden rule.

Next came the University of Utah, in which I still wasn't completely free, But I eventually got out of the place with a Geography Degree.

Then the Army had its turn, another place I felt didn't fit my fancy, After twenty one months and three days, I was happy to leave, even antsy.

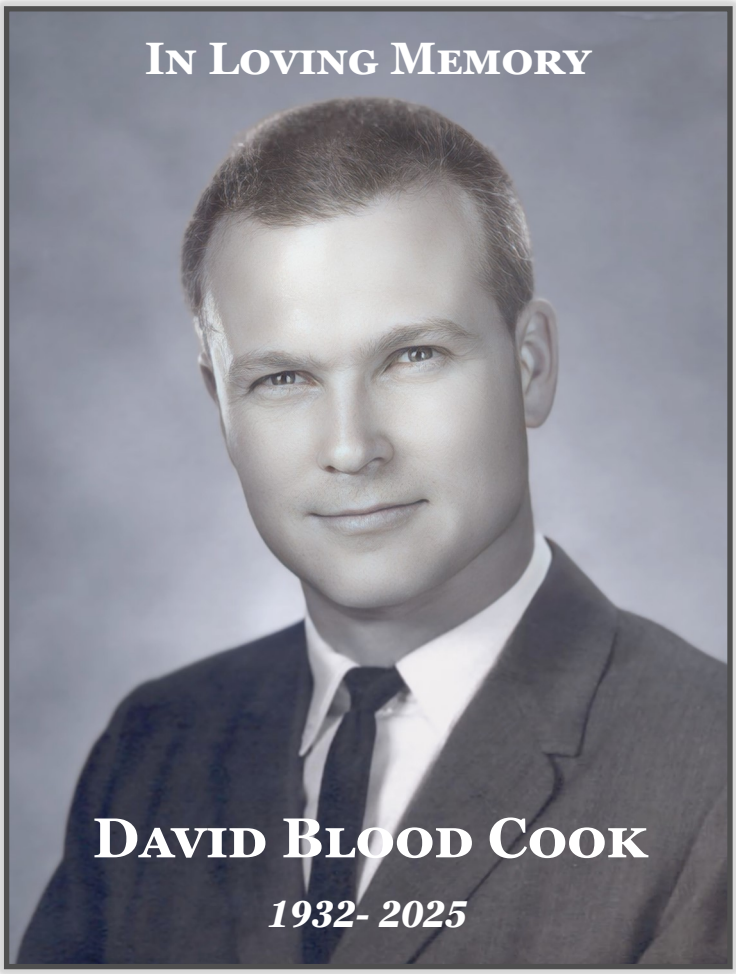

Finally the job market, first the Post Office for seven days, Yes, it's counted in my total fifty five years, with few extra pays.

Up came the biggy, I signed on with the B.L.M. on August 4, 1957, It was a good job, with good people, I thought I was in heaven.

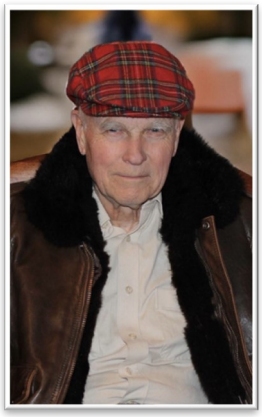

Later, off to the Weather Service on February 4, 1962, which was fine, And stayed with them until a B.L.M. job came along in February 25, 1979.

Here's where I've been until now, still taking up space at my drafting table, I'll probably stay put until I leave on a gurney, or physically able.

That sums it up, somewhere along the way, I did get married to Sharon, Got two children, who had four grandsons, so I guess I wasn't completely barren.
