

Dirty Knees and Doves

Taken for granted, assumed to be there whenever needed.

Lessons taught, oft went unheeded.

Up for a walk, breathe, move and stay solid.

Pushups every day. Bet she did more than you could.

Out to the garden, hands in the dirt for the rest of the day pulling up weeds.

Clearing the way for beauty to shine through, planting new seeds.

Steady in life, friendship, and love. Persistent. True.

Mom, all the chocolate in the world could never replace you.
