A Life On Loan To Me

I do not doubt that you are a miracle.
I knew the first moment I touched you.
And as diagnosis piled on top of diagnosis,
I thought it just might be.
That your little life was just on loan to me.

You changed everything.
Just with your presence.
You showed me we are all so arrogant.
All of humanity.
Thinking we know what a life should be.

And I don't know how you did it.
As I watched you in awe.
You taught me what was important.
And to let go of all the rest.
But it wasn't easy at times, a test.

And now you're with God.
And now you're free
of your wheelchair, medical equipment,
medicines, and doctors of every specialty.

And although I'm heartbroken,
I take comfort in knowing you're with Jesus.
Knowing you're free.
For your amazing life was just on loan to me.
