

Because I've lost you dear
 The world is dark and void to me
 The birds that sing so cheerily
 Have lost their music and I see
 The glorious sky through mists of tears
 Because I've lost you dear
 Because I've lost you dear
 I see no sunshine in the summer sky
 I hear no music in the gently sighing breeze
 Nor see the ripples on the laughing brook
 I know but Joyless solitude
 Because I've lost you dear
 All others seem lost also to me
 I feel no interest in the ones I love
 Nor feel that they have love for me

But only pity in their glance
 Because I've lost you dear.
 But have I lost You dear?
 What has been mine will still belong to me
 No one can rob me of what once was mine
 Or take away the joy the past has given
 So now though you are gone
 I still will hold to what you have been- Dear to Me
 And still have hope that some bright future day
 I shall be with you once again
 Because I've had you dear
 I still must owe the world
 A richer place in which to live
 I know the joy it is to feel the Light of Love
 Because of you,
