Why ATI

A sudden illness or accident while travelling can be one of the largest unexpected expenses someone can incur in their lifetime.

The Problem

Just under half (44%) of Canadians polled in May 2012 say they rarely or never purchase travel insurance when traveling to the United States.

BECKER'S Hospital Review

The Average cost for a hospital stay in the U.S. went up by 90% from 2000 to 2010, climbing to $33,079.00

Why do so many people take the risk?

Because individual travel insurance is expensive, and the options can be confusing. More often than not, people simply don't realize that their Provincial health care does not cover them.

Offer ATI Association travel insurance to your Members and Employees
