

More Than Bricks and Mortar Campaign Exceeds $2 Million

We are thrilled to announce that we have received gift commitments totaling more than $2 million towards the $3 million goal for a new Hellenic Center. And momentum is gaining!

“The Holy Trinity community is generous and we are excited to sit down with families to ask for their participation in the campaign,” says Steering Committee Chair Jimmie Gianoukos. “We want to ask each family personally and this takes a while, so if we have not talked to you yet please know we will be calling you soon!”

The Greek Orthodox Church is built on two pillars: worship and fellowship. We have a beautiful church for worship, but nowhere large enough to share a Greek meal or celebrate milestones together. The time is right to finally build that space! Our church is the strongest it’s been in 20 years, thanks to the dynamic and robust faith and love of the community.

“Holy Trinity is a special place, and there is tremendous support for our efforts,” says Holy Trinity Reverend Father Ari Damaskos. “It is our turn to move forward in faith and leave a legacy for the next generations.”

Campaign to Make Public Announcement at November 12 General Assembly

On Sunday, November 12th, the More Than Bricks and Mortar - A Foundation of Faith for Our Future campaign will officially launch the public phase of the campaign during the General Assembly gathering.

This event will mark an important milestone in the campaign, says Steering Committee Chair Jimmie Gianoukos. “Until this point, the campaign has been in the quiet phase where we have been raising money from within the Holy Trinity community,”

Gianoukos says. “As we launch the public phase we will continue to meet with Holy Trinity families, and will also expand our reach into the broader community.”

During the General Assembly gathering, the capital campaign steering committee will unveil spaces in the New Hellenic Center that have been officially named as part of the campaign’s efforts to raise money for the building. Father Ari and Jimmie Gianoukos will also give an update on how much money has been raised, and there will be special blessing to mark the occasion.
