Barrels: Laura Wienczek has competed successfully in barrels and team penning. She placed at the Josey Jr. World Championships, Quarter Horse Congress and Quarterama. After competing in the Extreme Retired Racehorse Makeover, Laura made it her mission to rehome and retrain racehorses for barrel racing. She founded the Thoroughbred Barrel Racing Association. Currently she is the steward for the barrel racing portion of the Retired Racehorse Makeover project in Kentucky.

Dressage: Sandy Young owns and operates Sandy Young Training Center in New Castle, Pa. As a child, Sandy began her equine career with Welsh ponies then joined pony club and even tried fox hunting. Sandy competed in all divisions with her Arabians and Half Arabians. Recently, she has focused on dressage and her mare Vandetta. This mare is currently competing in dressage at the 3rd level and is one score away from receiving the USDF Bronze medal. Her mare SS Darq Angel received her Legion of Merit.

Hunt Seat: Deb Kitzmiller is a graduate of the Western Equestrian Program at the University of Findley. She currently trains & gives lessons in a variety of disciplines at Sunset Stables. Many of her students have received Championships and top 5's at local & national shows.

Ranch/Obstacles: Ashley Gruber graduated from the University of Findley's Western Equestrian Program. She designed and help build the obstacle course at BHP. The first IMTCA shows at BHP will begin this year with Ashley as show manager. Ashley has been a 4-H judge for 15 years.

Saddle Seat: Annie Boylan grew up in the Boston area and showed Arabians and Half Arabians. After college she moved to Georgia & worked for Tish Kondas & another nationally ranked trainer. She worked for Stackowski Farm several years before opening Ankat Training Center in Newbury, Ohio.

Showmanship/Western: Sheila Karlin has been an open & 4-H judge for several years. She has helped several students become finalists at Quarter Horse Congress. Some of her students have won in showmanship & western at the All American Youth Show. Shelia is proficient in several other disciplines.
