SECOND SUNDAY OF EASTER

Just another kid in the neighborhood

Jesus came and stood in their midst and said to them, "Peace be with you."

. . . [Jesus] said to Thomas, "Put your finger here and see my hands, and bring your hand and put it into my side, and do not be unbelieving, but believe." John 20: 19-31

Islington Road in the Boston suburb of Newton is the kind of neighborhood where elderly neighbors' driveways are shoveled, where you can expect a casserole if you or a family member is sick, where newcomers are welcomed with plates of cookies and offers of help. And so Glenda and Raphael Savitz were warmly welcomed by their new neighbors when they moved to Newton three years ago.

Three months after Glenda and Raphael moved in, their daughter Samantha was born. Within a week, newborn screening tests showed the Samantha was deaf.

That's when something extraordinary happened.

About 20 of the Savitz' neighbors hired an instructor to teach them sign language so they could communicate with their littlest neighbor. They wanted Samantha to know what their kids knew growing up on Islington Road: community, friendship, inclusion.

"This child will always be a child of this neighborhood," says one woman, who grew up in the neighborhood and raised her own three children here. "We will all be participants in helping her as she grows. We do that with each other's children. The community is already in place. This is just a new way to express it."

So Samantha, her mom and dad, and their neighbors have been meeting together over the past year to learn American Sign Language. The teacher, Rhys McGovern, finds this is remarkable: many times even the parents of deaf children don't bother to learn sign language. "But here Sam has a full community that's signing and communicating with her and her family, and it is a beautiful story." And McGovern notes that this level of inclusion will almost certainly guarantee a happier, more well-adjusted Samantha.

After one recent study evening in a neighbor's living room, a woman remarks, "One of the most emotional experiences having [Samantha] is that I really learned about how much support and how much love there is here. How much I've learned about other people."

The neighbors on Islington Road want their littlest neighbor to know that she belongs, so they lean down and sign with Samantha. And in every meeting in a store or on the street, Samantha points to a neighbor and makes the sign for "friend."

Just another neighborhood kid.

The gathering of Samantha and her neighbors mirrors the scene on Easter night recounted in Luke's Gospel: little Samantha is the living sign of God's love in their midst; their determination to learn sign language to make Samantha and her family know that they are welcomed and love is the "breath" of God's peace inspiring them to such compassion and generosity of heart. As he did that Easter night in the locked room, the Risen Jesus stands in our midst, making of us a people in communion with God and with one another. He is a real, living presence that makes us a community of dynamic, energizing faith. His "breathing" the Spirit of God upon us defines our identity as the people of God: shattering our tombs and knocking down locked doors, enabling us to realize God's vision of a church that accepts one another, that affirms one another, that supports one another as God has done for every one of us in his Risen Christ.

- Thanks to Michael Cucchiara, Wendy King, and Madison D'Avella for helping with the hiding of the eggs for the Egg Hunt.
- Thank you Joann Gardner, Doris Royal and Patti Rittman for selling the Easter Flowers after Mass.

PASTOR'S CORNER

This weekend we reflect on the divine Mercy. This feast day is centered on the revelations of Saint Faustina Kowalska. The Lord revealed to her that his mercy was unending and powerful. Because of the Divine Mercy we have the Father in heaven sending his only begotten Son to save us from sin and eternal death. Because of the Divine Mercy we have the hope of eternal life and the promise that we will rise again on the last day! As you can see the Mercy of God, Father, Son and Holy Spirit, is centered on the fullness of "life!" May we all know the Divine Mercy in our lives!

God Bless,
Fr. Rick

EASTER SACRAMENTS

Even though this year, our parish didn't have any parishioners being welcomed into the Catholic faith we pray for the 248 people all around our diocese who are receiving the Easter Sacraments at the Easter Vigil. We pray for these people who have joined the faith and joyfully opened themselves to a deeper relationship with God. Let us pray for those who are searching for more meaning in their life, that they will be open to finding God.

BLESSED WOUNDS, TEACHING SCARS

We all bear some sort of scar or wound on our bodies: the bruise from the baseball that caromed into our cheek when we were a kid, the burn from getting too close to the grill at the summer barbeque, the scar — the beautiful scar — from the birth of our child.

Every scar has a story. Every wound teaches.

For example, wounds mark a break in the surface of things. A smooth surface goes unnoticed, for the most part, but a disruption of that smooth surface gives us pause to wonder. Scars are an invitation to become aware of how fragile the human body is, how easily it is penetrated. The violence that wounds do to the tissues of a body puts into question how much we rely on things to be as they should be, but sometimes are not. That wounds can occur, that they can be deliberately inflicted, that what we rely on can fail us, makes us realize that our world can be a very unsafe place, that our capacity to trust is fragile, that we are all vulnerable to be hurt in body — and soul.

An open wound enables us to peer inside the body, below the surface of things, and discover that what is underneath us not like what first appears to the eye. We realize the complexity of our bodies. We also see the wonder of our very existence — and of the Creator of this incredible body of ours.

Wounds and scars also reveal wisdom. Wounds make us more aware of the stresses and tensions that affect us, of the outside forces that challenge us. When wounds are touched or when elements in the environment make them ache, the memories of their infliction instantly return. Wounds and scars, therefore, are teachers; they're repositories of memories of trauma now past, but whose infliction has forever altered us and our thinking and understanding.

Wounds can be signs of blessing, revelations of healing, and teachers of the wisdom of our Creator.

On Easter night, Jesus shows his wounds and talks about them freely; they are no longer a source of pain and bitter memory, but now heal and teach and bless: they heal Thomas' troubled soul, riddled with the loss of faith; they restore Peter and the Eleven to hope and communion with Jesus; they reveal God's peace still in their midst despite the horror of the past three days. Our own wounds and scars can have a similar effect on our lives: they can teach us how fragile our lives are; they can reveal to us the love of God in the compassion and care of those who treated us; they can assure us of our ability to love by putting our bodies on the line for the protection and safety of others. Easter neither denies the effects of Good Friday nor erases the wounds of crucifixion; Easter is God's compassion moving us beyond the scars of crucifixion to healing and wholeness. Jesus says to Thomas and his brothers, Don't be afraid of the nail marks and the scars and the fractured bones and the crushed spirit and the broken heart. Compassion, forgiveness, justice — no matter how clumsily offered — can heal and mend. In the light of unwavering hope, with the assurance of God's unlimited grace, every scar on our own bodies — the marks of courageous sacrifice, hard-earned wisdom, and selfless kindness — is the realization of the promise of Easter in our midst.

IT IS EASTER, IT IS SPRING! ALL THINGS ARE NEW!

Praying for Others

Consider starting a new practice of praying for others. You can incorporate it in your personal prayers by simply asking God to help others in need. Or you can join thirty parishioners who pray for the needs of others. This is done when they receive an email with requests to pray for someone made by other parishioners. Nothing else is needed except to receive an email and say a prayer for someone. Contact prayerministry@ccsjn.org

HE IS RISEN! ALLELUIA! ALLELUIA!

Easter brings us the joy of the resurrection. We are an Easter people, celebrating that our Lord has saved us from sin and offers us everlasting life. We now begin the Easter season. Over the next few weeks we come to church with joyful acceptance of Jesus' promise of new life. What does that mean to us daily, today? This is a wonderful season to come to Mass, listen to scripture and the homily and see what God is trying to tell us. This is the time to come out of Lent and begin our new life with Jesus — how do we take his teaching of loving one another and put it into practice. This week, start with praying and listening to God daily.

YOGA IS RETURNING

Chair Yoga Starts

Tuesday, April 23rd, 10:30am

Chair classes are for anyone who is not comfortable getting down and up from the floor. We practice lots of breathing and stretching and also a few standing poses. We prefer to remove our shoes but it's not mandatory. Class meets in the Narthex or on the back patio weather permitting. No prior experience needed.

Mat Yoga Starts

Wednesday, April 24th, 5:30pm

Gentle mat classes in the rear loft of the church sets the stage for a very relaxed and gentle yoga practice. Please bring a mat or beach towel and wear comfortable clothes and easy to remove shoes. No prior experience needed.
