AFTER ABORTION CARE

If you have experienced negative emotions resulting from a previous abortion, we are here to listen as well as refer you to other help you may need. Such emotions may carry over into and affect other areas of your life, resulting in relationship struggles, depression, substance abuse, etc. It is important for you to know that you are not alone. We can connect you with others who have experienced similar circumstances and/or refer you to community healthcare professionals to assist you in your healing.
