

Jane Clayton-Jones - Lone Buffalo Volunteer Business Development Advisor

I have been working in the world of NGOs for the last 25 years and specialise in building NGO sustainability and resilience through structural and management development.

I have been working directly with Lone Buffalo since 2014 when I spent 2 months with them whilst staying in Phonsavan. We worked on building a longer-term strategic plan and practical action planning to make the plan a reality. I now support them remotely and through direct contact when possible.

When I was working at the school in Phonsavan, a young student said to me 'English is my future'. I cannot think of a more worthwhile cause to support than one that allows young people to reach their potential.
