Second Reading: Heb. 5:7-9 We recall how Jesus prayed to his Father. Through obedience to suffering, Jesus became perfect and is the source of salvation for all who obey him.

Gospel: Jn. 12:20-33 Jesus predicts his glorification. It comes by dying like the grain of wheat. Those who love their life lose it. The Father from heaven answers Jesus.

AVE VERUM CORPUS

One of the songs you will hear performed by the IHM Choir during this Easter season is W. A. Mozart's beloved motet: Ave Verum Corpus.

In June 1791, only six months before Mozart's untimely (and yet unexplained) death at the age of 35, and still in the midst of composing The Magic Flute opera, he traveled to the spa town of Baden, about fifteen miles south of his home in Vienna, to spend a couple of days with his beloved wife Constanze, who was taking a rest cure at the famous hot springs. (Constanze was then in her last month of a difficult pregnancy for their sixth child, Franz Xaver, one of only two that survived infancy.)

While in Baden, he composed a four-part vocal musical setting of the text of a 14th century consecration prayer, Ave Verum Corpus, and presented it to a dear friend who was the church musician at St. Stephan in Baden, for performance on the feast of Corpus Christi. The text has been translated as: "Hail true body, born of the Virgin Mary, who was sacrificed on the cross for man, whose pierced side flowed with water and blood: may it be for us a protection in the trial of death."

In Mozart's time, Vienna was part of the Holy Roman Empire and still overwhelmingly Roman Catholic in politics and practice. In this short motet, Mozart is said to have captured the depth of Catholic Eucharistic theology, and we find that it is his most dissonant harmonies that accompany the most graphic descriptions of the Saviour's suffering. The piece has justly been described as, "forty-six measures of birth, death, salvation, and communion that have thus far transcended the centuries."
