

Third Party Scholarships

Suggestion: Keep a calendar of scholarship application availability, deadlines and websites so that you can apply on time each year and not have to go through the list each time.

Check out your local organizations, local town/city, companies and professional organizations and professional athletic teams. Check your employer and your parents' employer, unions, and look within your major. You can also check the Department of Education for your home state. You should not have to pay anyone to do a scholarship search. They are all free. Keep in mind that some of the scholarships listed may require very specific qualifications. Check out the main website as the agency may offer other scholarships than the one listed below.

The list below is a collection of random scholarships that are available nationwide. Some may or may not be applicable to you based on the nature of the scholarship.
