Building functional, affordable, and sleek websites for the today's modern business

Who am I?

Hello! My name is Daniel O'Leary. I am a senior at Lakeshore High School and part-time student at Lake Michigan College. More importantly, I am an entrepreneur and soon-to-be licensed real estate salesperson with an interest in creative wealth. I believe passive income is the most effective way to reaching personal success, and I thoroughly believe that with a simple website, I can help you generate that income!

Why choose O'Leary?

O'Leary Web Design & Photography is a full-service webpage construction and design service that is focused on customer satisfaction. Unlike most web designers, who consider themselves artists of sorts, we look at a website as an essential tool for growing a business. The tools we make just happen to look like works of art!

My interest in photography began years ago. Recently, I have honed my skills in order to produce stunning full-resolution photos.

I offer photo shoots for $100 each - a fantastic discount when compared to other local Studios (~$400 each) or amateurs (~$200 each).

How does our price compare to others?

Locally, there are a minimal amount of web designers by trade. Even so, the average cost of a website created by someone like us is (according to SiteBuilderReport) roughly $5,000.

Websites can be created for any price (over $300 due to creation fees) as they are all simply HTML script and design language at heart. The rest is the charge the creator deems fit for their work.
