

When the small but big hearted minis come around the corner, they catch everyone's eyes and capture hearts. Horses are very emotional animals that read what is going on around them and help in the best way they know how; just being there.

With mini horses being about the size of a Great Dane, they are easy to navigate through hallways, in elevators, up /down stairs and into classrooms / patient's rooms.

We look forward to introducing our amazing minis to you!

Our Mission Statement: to provide equine assisted activities and therapy to children and adults with physical, cognitive, and/or psychological disabilities in eastern North Carolina.

Minis on the Move

Academics

Academic program assists teachers by providing a hands-on approach to Math, Science, Geography, and Social Studies. Instructors work with the teacher to tailor the lesson to fit their curriculum needs; from the five senses and map reading skills to mathematical conversions and weights & measures, there is a wide array of possibilities. Each lesson has an equine theme which makes it not only memorable but fun.

The Minis on the Move have visited The Oakwood School several times and enjoy working with students on a variety of topics.

Literacy

Students reading below their grade level or missing essential reading skills are often intimidated and nervous when it comes to reading aloud. We stimulate students' desire to participate as they take turns reading to our attentive minis.

Therapeutic Partners

Because of their size, our minis are perfect partners in Equine Assisted Learning activities that promote personal development and emotional well-being. Designed for both individuals and small groups, these activities enhance life skills through experiencing the world of the horse. They are appropriate for rehabilitation centers, nursing homes, veterans programs, at-risk youth, special education classes, preschools and play groups.

Please call the barn at 252-752-0153 to schedule a visit and to inquire about cost.

The typical offsite visit is 1 hour long and includes both miniature horses and the staff needed for the experience.
