Quality, durability and above all affordability of our products are matched by our dependability and expertise in service. While you might find it difficult to obtain a price from a company that don't match your budget, we are individuals that don't hide behind a corporate structure that by design isn't customer and service oriented, we are a group of people equally accountable and liable for our work without the overhead that are pass down to customers, we gladly custom build new and refurbish systems to fit any budget without the over-priced sales gimmicks that offer "fit to all" applications that never deliver the results you want.

How we make it more affordable.

90% of all water treatment companies buy pre built systems based on statistical water testing data on your area. This is not a bad idea if you only thinking on the bottom line profit of the systems they are selling to you. And not on what is needed on system and what is not.

Insides of water systems:

No water is the same, chemical and mineral content varies, the same should happen with resin and media content and percentages in the tank. By doing this we eliminate cost of having media in the tank that you don't need but you are paying for on the final cost. On the flow control as well, there are substantial savings on features that you are being charged for that you won't use ever on the life expectancy of the system. In addition we don't have the overhead cost that most companies have.

Our office is our trucks, our installers are our testers, salesman and service providers, no warehouse no storage cost we use "just in time method" we pick the items needed previous to installation and build on site. Money that we don't spend money that you save.

Water treatment difference;

We only sale what u need. After testing your water we tailor a system that gives you the quality of water you want and deserve, with different options on new and refurbish equipment on hand to accommodate any budget.

Key areas of expertise:

- Well Water Treatment.
- City Water Purification Systems.
- Commercial on Demand Systems.
- Affordable Service and Refurbish most Brands.
- Preset service schedules to protect and expand life expectancy of your investment.
