

I was delighted to judge the breed I have been involved with for 32 years at this the 30th championship show and thank the committee for their hard work and the exhibitors for their lovely entry. I was looking for well constructed, true to type dogs with correct coat texture, shape of skull, muzzle, with sufficient underjaw, and ears. A compact hound but with good strength and drive on the move with a "houndy" appearance. I was delighted with my winners, but although I do not approve of blatant over grooming and scissoring, some hounds really did need attention to their coats and quite a few needed their nails cutting, which improves the look of the feet. I found one undershot bite. As always front construction (shoulders and lack of forechest) was a problem in some exhibits, but generally the overall quality has improved from the last time I judged in 2012.
