The Story of MooseCon

In November 2011 the first "MooseCon" event was held. It was my contribution to a community of tabletop gamers who had graciously invited myself and basically any gamer into their homes to play. Originally it was named "TurkeyCon". It was intended to be an annual event. A geek alternative to "Black Friday" shopping. It was a great success and many expressed interest in having the event more often than once a year. We decided to try it on a quarterly basis and to make it a "donation" con. As long as donations met expenses, it would continue. This great community didn't disappoint and 4 years later we are still hosting quarterly events. They are held at the Moose Lodge in Rock Hill, SC. This is where the "MooseCon" name is derived.
