Called to Worship  Empowered to Serve
A Mission Church
Bringing Members In, Sending Disciples Out

Dear Rumple Family,

Last month I wrote about all that I am grateful for here at Rumple and in my life. I remain incredibly grateful that God has called me here to this church and to this community. I was so touched and humbled by all the birthday cards, pastor appreciation cards, and the birthday celebration at the October churchwide lunch. I feel very loved and supported and I am very grateful for all of you.

And, as I write this November cover, I also have a heavy heart. In the past week we have had someone arrested for sending bombs in the mail, a mass shooting at a synagogue in Pittsburgh, and a high school student shot by a fellow student at a Charlotte high school. We cry out together, how long O Lord?

I know I gained strength by gathering with many of you for worship on October 28 and I will again each Sunday this month. I am grateful for my High Country clergy colleagues who organized a faith community vigil in Boone on October 29 and the strength we gained from uniting our voices to affirm God’s love for all. I hope to keep working at Rumple, and in the community, to bring different voices together so that we can truly hear one another and begin the hard work of bridging the divides that seem ever more evident in our country. I have great hope that the church has an important role to play in creating safe spaces for people to get to know one another and to stand up against hate of “the other.”

This Sunday, November 4, we will have our first gathering of “Can We Talk” a small group opportunity to share our stories and listen to the stories of others. Together I hope we will explore what our common calling is as followers of Jesus and begin to build new relationships that will enable us to be bridge builders in our community and beyond. Call or email me if you would like to join this group.

With Hope in God who can make all things new,

Kathy

Grateful Rumple at Work! This month church leaders will undertake the difficult task of establishing our budget for 2019. In doing so, they will consider requests to continue support of our current ministries as well as opportunities to enhance service to our congregation and mission in our community. Critical to this process is the documentation of estimates of giving from our membership. If you have already submitted your estimate of giving for 2019, thank you. If you have not yet returned your confidential estimate, please consider doing so as soon as possible. Please join with us to seize this opportunity to further our ministry and mission at Rumple and beyond.

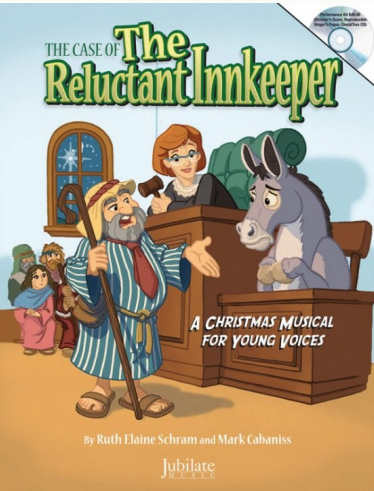

- The Stewardship Committee

Children's Corner

Save the Date!

Sunday, December 2nd, Rumple is having an Advent Workshop, and YOU are invited. Our children will present their Christmas musical "The Case of the Reluctant Innkeeper" at 3:30pm.

Following the musical, we'll have an Advent Workshop for our students and families. Join us for music, activities, and fun as we kick off the Advent Season.

Back-to-School-Again—Hurricane Relief Mission Opportunity

The Youth of Salem Presbytery invite and encourage all of our congregations to take part in this hurricane relief project. Many schools in our state are still not back in session due to damage and flooding. Please join together with ^{neighbors} across Salem Presbytery to provide "Back To School... Again" bags to school children who have lost everything due to hurricanes. School Kits include:

- 1 - pair of blunt scissors (rounded tip)
- 3 - 70-count spiral notebooks or tape-bound pads of 8" x 10 1/2" ruled paper or pads with 200-210 sheets of ruled paper. Do not include filler paper.
- 1 - 30-centimeter ruler (12")
- 1 - hand-held pencil sharpener
- 6 - new pencils with erasers
- 1 - large eraser
- 1 - box of 24 crayons
- 1 - cloth bag, 12" x 14" to 14" x 17" finished size cotton cloth bag with cloth handles; (Please, do not use reusable shopping bags or backpacks.) Pack all items in the cloth bag.

Drop off items/kits to the church office by Sunday, November 11. There will be a bin labeled "Back-to-School-Again" Kits in the lobby. Other churches will be bringing items to the presbytery meeting we are hosting on November 13.

Hymn for November by Dave McCollum

A common complaint voiced against the King James version (KJV) of the Bible refers to the use of antiquated words that have long since disappeared from our daily discourse. Some of the words, however, appear in very familiar Scripture that many of us set to memory in early childhood. We find some of these words in Psalm 23. Words like maketh, leadeth, and restoreth are all part of a bygone era. The problem with those of us in our late middle years and older, is that we're caught between utilizing many Scriptures of later translations clearly more concise and understandable and the feeling of nostalgia that looms when we recite Scripture that was memorized as a child. The old joke supporting the KJV translation of the Bible goes, "if it was good enough for Jesus, it's good enough for me." Of course, the King James version wasn't written until 1611.

Although I rarely use the KJV these days, I still prefer the KJV translation of Psalm 23; probably because that's the version I committed to memory as a child. When I hear another translation, it often falls flat. Some of our "good old hymns" that we grew up singing can have a similar life that reaches back with nostalgia. But it doesn't mean that old hymns cannot take on new life.

Our hymn this month is "He Leadeth Me." The hymn was written by Joseph H. Gilmore in 1862, right in the middle of the darkest days of the Civil War. Gilmore said about the hymn that "I realize that God's leadership is the one significant fact in human experience, that it makes no difference how we are led, or whither we are led, so long as we are sure God is leading us." I'm sure several of you, like myself, grew up singing "He Leadeth Me," in Sunday morning worship. I can't say it was necessarily one of my favorites, but I liked it well enough. It took on new meaning, however, several years later.

As a high school choral director, each year I took my top high school choral ensemble on tour to perform a sacred program at some of the home churches of its members. In preparing for the tour, I invited individual students to work up small group arrangements to add variety and fill out the program. This particular year (2008), one of my brightest choral students, who incidentally went on to major in music at Appalachian State University and finish a bachelor's and master's degree in organ, decided to work up a three-part, a cappella arrangement and sing it as part of our fall church choir tour. He chose the hymn, "He Leadeth Me." Although I had grown up with the hymn, there was something about that arrangement. Maybe it was the way the unaccompanied voices blended. Maybe hearing it and really paying attention to the words made them come to life. Maybe it was hearing young voices proclaim that "God's hand will lead, and I will follow," gave me hope for this new generation. It was probably all the above. That arrangement turned a pleasant-enough hymn to sing, into something special. Of course, the real reason the hymn ended up speaking to me had everything to do with how the words and music came together through the work of the Spirit. That's what hooked me into sacred music in the first place. Recognizing that words and music come together in worship, not as elements that stand alone, but as a work of the Holy Spirit. God uses the spoken word and musical expressions to relate the endless mystery and grace that is also within each of us. We need only pay attention. So, when you get ready to sing a favorite hymn that can be sung on auto-pilot, re-engage your mind to the meaning of the text. The hymns we sing each week are chocked full of meaning. Our job is to pay attention. Who knows, we might find our old favorite might surprise us with a new word from God.

Here is the first and last stanza: (1) He leadeth me, O blessed thought, O words with heavenly comfort fraught! Whate'er I do, where-e'er I be, Still 'tis God's hand that leadeth me. (Refrain) He leadeth me, He leadeth me, by His own hand He leadeth me; His faithful follower I would be, for by His hand He leadeth me. (4) And when my task on earth is done, When by Thy grace the vic-t'ry's won, E'en death's cold wave I will not flee, Since God through Jordan leadeth me. (Refrain). The full text can be found here: https://hymnary.org/text/he_leadeth_me_o_blessed_thought

Reflections on Rumble's Visiting Scholar

In September, Rumble hosted Visiting Scholar Dr. Brent Strawn. The weekend was packed-full of engaging, captivating sermon and lectures. Being our first visiting scholar weekend, I thought it was extremely successful. Personally, I found myself diving back into Old Testament scriptures and seeing them in a new light. I am thankful for Dr. Strawn's visit and the knowledge he imparted. We (the Visiting Scholar Team) look forward to hosting another visiting scholar in the future! -Holly Bannan

Here are a few words from other church members on Dr. Strawn's visit:

"One of the things I miss most as a retiree is engaging in thoughtful discourse and the exploration of complex issues with others on a regular basis. Thinking about the significance of the Old Testament in the 21st century was an enriching experience that I continue to reflect on. Dr. Strawn touched my "love of learning" nerve. I believe to engage in scholarly discourse and apply it to our lives is imperative. It is my hope that we, as a congregation, will welcome visiting scholars to Rumble and this community on a regular basis." -Shirley Harris

"Alex and I were privileged to have the Strawn family stay at our home and, in those few days, found them to be deeply spiritual, very considerate as house guests (they even stripped their beds!) and delightfully funny. Besides cleaning house in preparation, we read Brent's recent book, The Old Testament is Dying and made sure that there were no copies of those miniature New Testaments only Bibles in sight.

Looking back on Brent's time with Rumble, I believe that we profited from hearing from a scholar with a new viewpoint on the church at large and on our Bible literacy. In his well documented and witty talks, Brent convinced me that the Old Testament is worth saving and that my own knowledge of it is sorely lacking. Since the Strawns left, I have read through Jeremiah, Lamentations and Ezekiel and now understand why so many churches and pastors prefer the Gospels! Perhaps we indeed need more in depth study of the Old Testament and its relevance today." - Anne Bernhardt

Rumple on a Mission

Holy God, one in grace, one glory, one in love – you call us to love and serve you as one people, united in heart, mind, spirit, and strength. Help us to love one another, living in unity and peace, working together in your Spirit for the good of all; through Jesus Christ, our reconciler and redeemer.

- Eunice T. McGarahan, A Study of the Belhar Confession and its Accompanying Letter

To conclude our fall focus on Watauga County Habitat for Humanity, we are all invited to celebrate the Bradshaw home dedication on Sunday, November 4th at 2 pm at the Bradshaw home in the GreenWood neighborhood (directly beside Green Valley School off Hwy. 194).

As we look forward to Thanksgiving and Christmas, Rumple Missions will focus on several holiday missions projects. Partnering with Blowing Rock C.A.R.E.S., we will collect, package, and deliver Food4Families for Thanksgiving. Rumple will provide food for approximately ten families with children at Blowing Rock School for Thanksgiving and the Thanksgiving break. If you would like to shop, pack, and/or deliver food, please contact Tim Harris, timharris_2@charter.net.

Later this month, we will continue our Rumple Christmas traditions with the Angel Tree and Elderberry. The Angel Tree, decorated with paper angels including the names, ages, and clothing sizes of children needing our help, will be displayed in the church lobby starting Nov. 25. Any questions about this ministry may be directed to Susan Suddreth, 263-0821, or Teresa Lentz, 295-3276. We will also host the Elderberry ministry again this year to support local elderly in need. We will collect grocery gift certificates, stockings, and other gifts for local elderly identified by the Hunger and Health Coalition. If you would like to be involved in this ministry, please email Anita Henderson, anitahen@att.net.

We also continue our monthly food collections for Blowing Rock C.A.R.E.S. Blowing Rock C.A.R.E.S. is a food bank that helps provide basic, non-perishable food to families and individuals in Watauga County. The Blowing Rock C.A.R.E.S. food pantry is open for clients on Mondays from 9 am to 1 pm right here at Rumple. The November items of need for Blowing Rock C.A.R.E.S. are toilet paper, applesauce (low or no sugar), canned fruits in natural juices, canned beans (pork & beans, pinto, great northern, lima), black-eyed peas, and low-fat canned milk. Please bring your items throughout the month of November and leave them in the shopping cart in the church lobby.

During this month of Thanksgiving, Rumple Missions would like to offer our sincere thanks to all of our volunteers, committee members, those who offer their time and financial resources, and the entire Rumple congregation for your ongoing support of Rumple Missions.

THANK YOU to everyone who donated items and helped pack the Presbyterian Disaster Assistance (PDA) hygiene kits! We packed 200 kits for Hurricane Florence victims. We also collected over $3000 to send cleaning buckets to folks in eastern NC. The Missions Committee, with support from the Finance Committee, sent an additional $5000 to PDA for flood victims. While there is still much work to be done in areas affected by Hurricanes Florence and Michael, Rumple's efforts and generous support will help families with recovery efforts.

THANK YOU to the Habitat work crews and lunch volunteers for successful work days at the Bradshaw home! Thanks as well to this congregation for the Peace and Global Witness Offering. We collected $322, 25% of which we donated to Watauga County Habitat for Humanity.

News from Blowing Rock CARES the food pantry housed at Rumble

CARES 2018 client data base has 52 households. For the period January through September 2018, CARES served an average of 13 households per week. The high was 17 per week in June, and the low was 9 per week in March. For this same period, an average of 26 adults and 4-5 children were served per week from these households. These data include the households served through the Food4Families program from June through early August. In the month of October (one week yet to go), CARES has served an average of 18 households per week. An average of 34 adults and 10 children were served per week thus far in October. CARES will be providing Thanksgiving and Christmas food to Blowing Rock School families whose children receive free or reduced-price meals at school. A grant from St. Mary of the Hills Tour of Homes project is providing the funds for this. CARES is collaborating with Blowing Rock Rotary to anonymously 'adopt' children at Blowing Rock School for Christmas (provide Christmas presents). These children will come from the Watauga County Schools' list for this purpose. In addition, CARES, along with other nonprofits, contributes to WeCan to help families with utility bills. This simplifies providing that assistance. When families ask CARES for help with utility bills, they are referred to WeCan.

CARES has served one family this year who has a toddler undergoing chemotherapy for cancer. Another has a middle school child who has Type 1 diabetes and has been in intensive care at least once this year. There is an adult client who is being treated for chronic sepsis. Several of the households consist of elderly adults, some of whom have chronic or serious acute medical issues. One grandmother, whose income is social security, is basically sole support for her adult children and grandchildren. These are some of those who are comfortable enough to make us aware of their life situations. We also often get to share laughs and joys with our client families.

As of October 22, CARES has received literally a ton (2109 pounds) of donated food in 2018. Virtually all of it has come from Rumble and St. Mary of the Hills. We ask that donors please check the 'use by' dates on donated food. We offer food that is slightly (a month or two) out of date to families, and they accept it or not, knowing that it is out of date. Food that is more than two months out of date cannot be given to families, for liability reasons. We would like to encourage part-year Rumble folks to think of CARES when they clean out their pantries to leave for the winter. Despite this outpouring of donated food, CARES must buy most of the food provided to the families we are privileged to serve.

CARES' proposed budget this year, based on some previous year budgets, anticipated possibly having a deficit. CARES has historically maintained a semi-restricted reserve in the bank account, which can be used to offset a deficit if one occurs. There are also measures in place that allow us to carefully monitor revenue and expenses. So far this year, we have exceeded proposed budget expectations for some revenue sources (grants and donations, in particular) and, based on a recent report, the Charity golf tournament netted more than was anticipated. In addition, expenses may not be as great as was anticipated. After a year of experience, we should be able to budget a bit more precisely.

We will gather around the communion table to celebrate a meal and give thanks to God that, through the power of the Holy Spirit, are gathered with all saints from all times and places.

Coping with the Holidays, Saturday, November 3, 2:00 pm

The holiday season can be emotionally challenging when you are coping with a loss. Caldwell Hospice Chaplain Roger Newton will lead a discussion exploring ways to plan holiday events that include remembering loved ones, promoting healthy coping, and caring for yourself during a festive but difficult time. This program can be particularly helpful for individuals and families who will be facing the holidays for the first time without their loved one. The event will be Saturday, November 3, 2018, 2 to 3:00 p.m. at The Jones House, 604 West King Street, Boone, NC. For more information or to register, call 828-754.0101 or visit caldwellhospice.org.

A note from Congregational Care - Thanksgiving is the most heavily traveled holiday in America. When you gather, it might be a good time to share with certain family members any information you have recorded in your Details: Helpful Information for the End of my Life booklet. If you would like to complete a copy or take several to each of your adult family members, they are located in the far corner of the Library, in a box. Thanksgiving has traditionally been promoted as a time to share information like Health Care Power of Attorney or a Living Will. This planning ahead is a serious gift for family members for when you are no longer able to give instructions. Extra free copies of these booklets are available at Rumble. Please stop by if you'd like to have one.
