Death of a River Guide	Flannagan, Richard	Pleasure Reading	A story of one man who discovers that there is nothing in his extraordinary universe to which he is unconnected: plants and animals as well as men and women, small things as well as large. It's a story about family and place and the roots that pull us back to our origins. Earthy, magical, comic and tragic by turns, it is a novel that celebrates life and confirms Richard Flannagan as one of the world's most exciting new voices.	164	1994
Distant Fires - Best book for young adults.	Anderson, Scott	Pleasure Reading	A classic canoe-trip story with a twist of wry. Author Scott Anderson's journey with something more than just a portage-and-paddle adventure. Certainly it was the only such journey to begin on a front porch in Duluth, Minn. And end - three months and 1,700 miles later - at historic York Factory on the shores of Hudson Bay. And with every turn of the page, author Scott Anderson treats the reader to a breath of fresh northwoods air.	165	1990
Down the Wild River North	Helmericks, Constance	Pleasure Reading	In 1965, Connie Helmericks announced to her two daughters 12 and 14 years old that they were going to make a canoe expedition to the Arctic Ocean. For two successive summers, Helmericks and her two daughters voyaged down the Peace, Slave, and Mackenzie river systems to the Arctic Ocean. They navigated rapids and floating tree jams on the often flooded rivers, lived with bugs, wind and mud, visited isolated riverside inhabitants and enjoyed it all with great good humor.	166	1968
Never Turn Back	Watters, Ron	Pleasure Reading	The Life of Whitewater Pioneer Walt Blackadar. This is the gripping and compelling life story of Dr. Walt Blackadar, a physician from a small town in Idaho. Shackleton's Way - Leadership lessons from the great Antarctic Explorer	Morrell, Margot & Capparell, Stephanie	Pleasure Reading	From 1914-1916, Ernest Shackleton and his men survived the wreck of their ship, Endurance, in the crushing Antarctic ice, stranded 1,200 miles from civilization with no means of communication and no hope for rescue. The temperatures were so low the men could hear water freeze. They subsisted on a diet of penguins, dogs, and seals. And when the ice began to break up, Shackleton set out to save them all on his heroic 800 mile trip across the frigid South Atlantic - in little more than a rowboat. Unlike most other polar expeditions, every man survived - not only in good health, but also in good spirits-all due to the leadership of Shackleton.	174	2001
Shooting The Boh - A Woman's voyage down the wildest river in Borneo	Johnston, Tracy	Pleasure Reading	When Tracy Johnston signed up for a rafting expedition down Borneo's Boh River, she had no idea that it had never been fully navigated-or that its rapids were so treacherous that her party, a group of eccentric fellow adventurers from all over the globe, would soon be calling it the "Boh Constrictor." No one had told her about the local wildlife, which included swimming cobras and swarms of sweat-eating bees, or about the Boh's population of evil spirits. But perhaps, the most frightening discovery that Johnston made was what she learned about herself; about what it means to be an adventurer-a woman adventurer-on the wrong side of forty, hampered by a changing body and the fear, loss, and envy that haunt any woman in a world that-even in Borneo-seems made exclusively for the young.	175-A	1992
The Voyage of the Narwhal	Barrett, Andrea	Pleasure Reading	Part adventure narrative, part love story, this extraordinary chronicle captures a crucial moment in the history of exploration, the mid-nineteenth century romance with the mystery of the Arctic. Combining fact and fiction, Andrea Barrett focuses on Erasmus Darwin Wells, a scholar-naturalist accompanying the expedition of the Narwhal. Through his eyes we meet the crew members and the expedition's blustery commander, obsessed with the search for an open polar sea, and we experience the wild, disturbing beauties of that last unexplored region. On the Narwhal, everyone is frightened, nothing is certain, and heroes emerge in unexpected guises.	177	1998
Where Rivers Run (This copy is signed)	McGuffin, Gary & Joan	Pleasure Reading	Author's account of their 2-year odyssey across Canada by canoe, 6,000 miles from the Gulf of St. Lawrence to the Beaufort Sea. Thru challenges & hardships along the way, they discovered a Canada most never see.	178	1999

Woman of the Boundary Waters	Kerfoot, Justine - Foreward by Les Blacklock	Pleasure Reading	The Boundary Waters region of Minnesota and Ontario is a vast wilderness of quiet beauty. Justine came here in 1928, a Northwestern Univ. graduate student headed for medical school, until her family lost both their homes to the stock market crash. Thrust into yearround life at her mother's fledgling summer resort, Justine was confronted with learning survival in frigid northern woods. She writes about her environment with sensitivity and acceptance. Her lyrical description of wildlife and seasonal environments express the deep reverence for life and nature which as been integrated into her being. In her book as in her life, she expresses love and appreciation of all living things.	179	1986
Women and Wilderness	LaBastille, Anne	Pleasure Reading	With a great deal of insight, the author provides a background of the historical role of women in America's frontier wilderness and contrasts that role with the drastically different and ever-changing involvement of women in the outdoors today. There are 15 stories of wilderness women as well as chapters on case studies of frontier women & frontier women in fiction .	180	1984
Nahanni River of Gold...River of Dreams (Signed copy)	Hartling, R. Neil	Photography	The South Nahanni River and Nahanni Nat'l Park have become icons of Canadian wilderness. Designated as the first World Heritage Site in 1978 the region has received international acclaim as a unique, diverse and spectacular area. The river has become a right of passage for river runners and is at the top of the must do lists of adventure travellers around the world. With less than 600 paddlers in 1992, one may still enjoy a wilderness adventure on the Nahanni. This photo-narrative journey records the knowledge and stories that he and his guides have collected over a decade of sharing the wonders of the famous river.	182	1993
Boundary Waters Canoe Area - Vol. 1: The Western Region	Beymer, Robert	Trails - Paddling	This book gives brief descriptions of 25 entry points into the western half of the BWCA, using Forest Service statistics and first-hand observations. The Exploration of the Colorado River and its Canyons	Powell, John Wesley	Pleasure Reading	The time is May 24, 1869. The place: the Green River portage, in present-day Wyoming. Major John W. Powell, one-armed Civil War veteran, later head of the U.S. Geological Survey and 9 geologists, geographers, scouts, and adventurers are about to begin their assignment to fill in the last white space on the map, to explore the last great unmapped and unknown part of the continental United States. Major Powell wrote the account of this remarkable expedition, and his narrative is one of the great classics of exploration, as thrilling as the feat itself. As we follow Powell's journal (expanded for publication), we find the ten men sailing through wild waters, momentarily expecting rapids around the next bend; and finding rapids, throwing out drag anchors, while one advanced boat tries to find through-flowing channels. We see mutiny, as 3 men refuse to face the perils any longer, and desert-to be massacred by the hostile Indians. Even famine did not stop them and 6 men finally emerged, after 95 days of peril, and a new continent of experience was recorded.	192
