

World Conflict

This has become a difficult task of understanding the complexities of the many. Each thought intention battling with the energy of the other thought intention, all believing each are correct. Believing their thought intention is positive and serves the greater good. It is complex because all believe they are correct. But, if all believe their thoughts are based upon the greater good of others thought intention, there would not be any harm inflicted upon others, no matter what their thoughts and beliefs are. There would be peace and acceptance of the other's beliefs and differences. A oneness of acceptance of each other differences and beliefs needs to occur to create a peaceful world. One by one we can make a difference in the world, through your thoughts. Allow your thoughts to focus upon the greater good of others thought intention, which includes not allowing any harm to come to others, and the only focus is upon, helping others. A world filled with peace and acceptance would be the greatest gift of all.

World Request

Please include in your daily thought intentions to include: no more harm will be inflicted upon others, no matter what their thoughts and beliefs are.

Give the gift of peace to all.
