1991

Carolyn and Jeff bought a colonial farm house in Perry County, just a mile or so away from Char & Ken. They spent sweat and tears fixing it up - stripped the walls of the old plaster and found it was a log home _ _ _ that's just the beginning. They moved out of Pio's lower level and into their own home.

Christmas 1990
It was a busy year-

1992 - July Trip to Montana to visit the Osgoods- I fly into Salt Lake City & drove to their cabin- We hiked/drove around, drove through Yellow Stonee Park, took a canoe trip- After ten days I drove back to Salt Lake City by way of the Grand Tetons, Jackson Wyoming; met up with a real roundup-

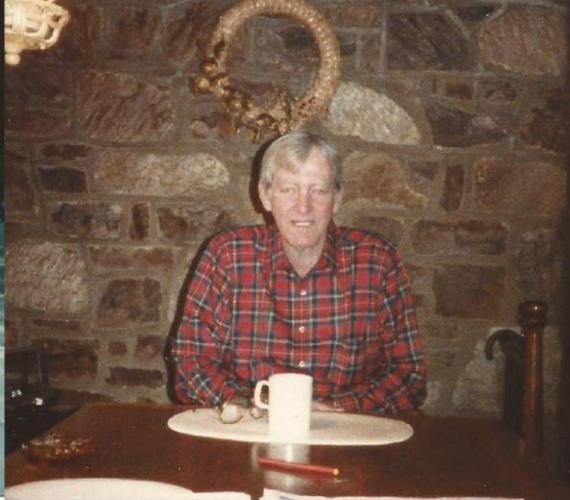

I had reached a point in life that was changing- I became an adult, a mother, career woman and grandmother- Work was just a necessary pastime- My interests and enjoyment were my daughters and their children- My daughters were all happily married and I had nine grandchildren- I spent most weekends in Perry County and was seriously thinking about buying property or a house while I could still get a mortgage-

I needed another activity- I found a bridge club which met once a week- First I substituted then was initiated as a member- The club was composed mostly of teachers; I was deemed the youngster of the group- During the week days I went to work, played bridge in the evening and spent weekends in Perry County- While shopping at Skyline Corners I heard about a little farm on Markelsville Road-

1993 I attended my high school 41st reunion. I never made it to the 25th; the 41st was the next reunion held. Some of us did not age well but look at Mern (my college room mate) and Ginny King.

I bought Greene Pastures in 1993; settlement was the day before a sheriff sale- I spent the holidays in Perry County (at Osmos) and got snowed in- Central PA had record snows in 1994

Things had been going well with me by December 1993. I bought "Greene Pastures" in Markelsville, Perry County and the growing software staff had a new contract. TACJAM-A was awarded to AEL-Sanders. Bob Evans, the new VP of Engineering, seemed very supportive of the company's need to grow their software capabilities. He raved about a female software engineer from Litton; he convinced her to leave silicone valley and come east. Susan Hartenstine was to replace me as Manager of Software engineering and I would be a staff consultant- same pay, same office. Susan Hartenstine would start in January 1994.

There were no documents to write, no proposals to support, no programs to code. TACJAM-A program disappeared from my desk. Finally "Cell Jam" program came along. It was a design and development contract for a government drug enforcement agency. The system ran on a desk top PC with a serial interface to a receiver/transmitter. The software detected a cell phone call and identify the source number and destination number. The intent was to locate the calls and cause interference so the message would be misinterpreted. Just the source and destination would enable an agent to locate/identify a drug dealer and/or recipient.

In 1994 my schedule for the week

Monday morning. I would leave Markelsville about 9 o'clock and get to the office in time for lunch time bridge; leave work at five to enjoy a restful evening at home.

Tuesday was a typical work day except I would go to my weekly bridge club which met at seven.

Wednesday was 8-5 work day with lunch time bridge and TV at night.

Thursday was the same except I drove home, put Cece in her cat carrier and we headed for Markelsville.

Fridays consisted of projects around Greene Pastures. If it wasn't raining I was gardening; if it was raining it was a painting, scraping wallpaper, wall papering, refinishing woodwork or something.

On Saturdays and Sundays I was playing grandmother.

The Cell-Jam project was complete on time and within budget. While testing the system I spent hours playing "Free Cell" waiting for a cell phone call to be detected. The design engineer quit before he finished developing the transmitter. The program was terminated but not me.

The company was closed for the '94 Christmas holidays. I was in Markelsville most of December. Shelby was born November 30 and her christening was two weeks later. The holidays were spent with the family and my five grandchildren ranging in age from eight to one month. I was driving east on the turnpike on January 3, 1995 heading back to work when I decided no more! I would retire as a 60th birthday present to myself.

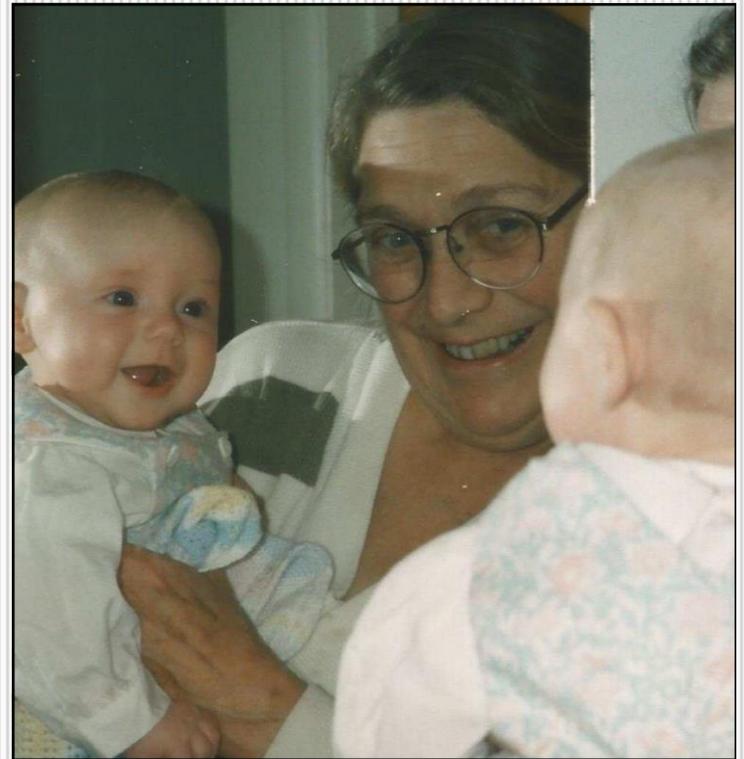

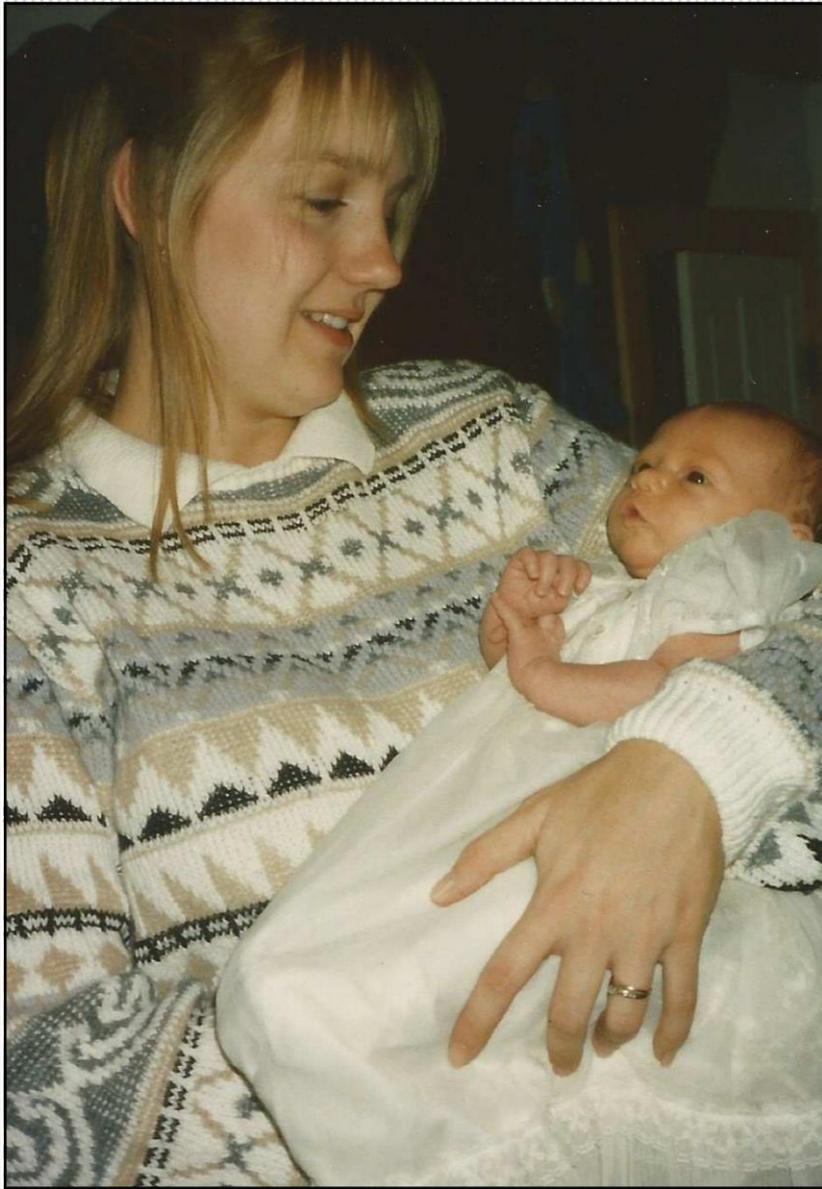

At this point I had already contacted Holly who had been my financial advisor for over twenty years. Holly studied my portfolio and convinced me there was enough money for me to retire if I lived in Perry County. As a result of the TACJAM-A award (also some negotiations for the company being sold) AEL's stock rose 275%. I exercised my stock options: bought large number of shares at $4/share which I sold at $14/share. Retirement looked more & more financially solvent!

That afternoon I marched into Susan's office and announced my retirement as of April 2, 1995, my sixtieth birthday.

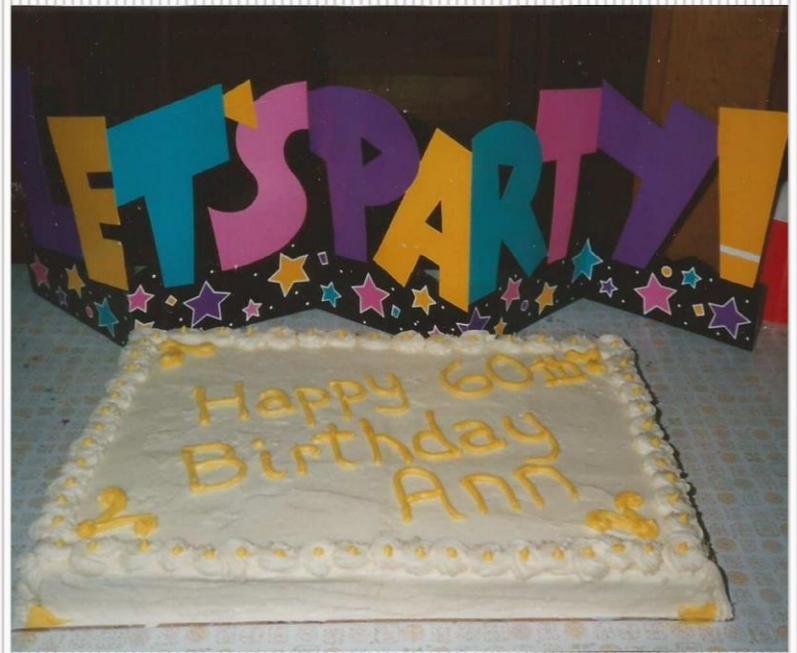

1994 was spent renovating the house or cutting the grass, I bought my first ride-a-mower from "Latchfords" in Newport. I had the wall knocked down to open the stair case. The stained glass window over the front door was salvaged from my parents house on Allens Lane. The after pictures were taken in October 1995 after I finally moved in.

Shelby Ann Pio was born November 29, 1994.

Char & Carolyn threw me a surprise birthday party. Nick, Gail, and Laurie came. Priscilla, Frank and Janet came; and of course their kids. It was really a surprise!
