Hi Parents and students!! I hope that you guys had a wonderful and relaxing time over your holiday season.

We will hit the ground running this week. There are a few changes that I feel I need to let you know about. We will no longer have the option of correcting work for a higher grade unless it is clear that they did not understand the material covered. I know that this seems harsh, but we need to start looking ahead to 4th grade and above. We have been discussing this in class since the first day of school, and especially since the beginning of December. I feel that learning how to handle a little pressure now might help them to handle bigger stressors later in life.

You will also notice vocabulary added to their spelling word list. These do not need to be studied for spelling accuracy. However, they do need to understand the definition and be able to match this definition to the correct word.

Thank you,

Mrs. Escobedo
