The TLP Premium Package covers your special day from the morning prep to the first dance. The videographer will arrive two hours before the ceremony begins to capture the morning preparations.

If the both the bride and groom are getting ready at the same venue then the videographer will be able to film both parties getting ready.

However if the couple are not getting ready at the same location, there is an option for a camera to be lent to one party (either the bride or the groom) while the videographer films the other party.

On occasions where the ceremony is at the same location as the morning prep, the videographer will use the quiet moments during the morning prep to set up for the ceremony, and capture shots of the venue, room and guest arriving.

However on the occasions that the ceremony is at a different location to the morning prep the videographer will aim to arrive at the ceremony venue 30 minutes before the ceremony is scheduled to start. This will allow the videographer time to set up for ceremony, capture shots of the venue and the room, before the bride arrives and the ceremony begins.

After the ceremony finishes the videographer will get to work capturing shots of the reception, which includes footage of the couple going off for their photos, shots of the wedding breakfast room and the general atmosphere of the reception, finishing with the bride and groom entering the wedding breakfast room before the speeches get underway.

Depending on where the speeches are in relation to the wedding breakfast meal the videographer will either set up to capture the speeches during the wedding breakfast or during the reception.

The evening reception is an opportunity for the videographer to capture video messages from guests or any activities that may be occurring during this time such as a magician. It is also during this time that the videographer will get set up for the first dance. Once both the cake cutting and first dance have finished the videographer will pack up.

The ceremony, speeches and first dance will all be filmed in full on multiple cameras.

The day after the wedding the couple can expect to receive a 30s sneak peek video along with an edit form, where they can put down their music choices and any other edit preferences they may have. Once the form has been filled in the edit can begin and the couple can expect to receive their videos Online via Vimeo within 8 Weeks. These videos will consist of a 3-6 minute highlights video, a 30-60 minute feature film, a separate video of the ceremony in full and another of the speeches in full.

As soon as the couple have signed off (confirming that they are happy with the videos) the videos will be transferred to USB and burnt to DVD before finally being handed over to the couple. These videos will include the engagement shoot video, the 30s sneak peek video, the 3-6 minute highlights video, the 30-60 minute feature film, and the separate videos of the ceremony in full and the speeches in full.

Before the wedding the couple will be able to book in a video or phone consultation to discuss the day and any preferences or logistics. During the phone/video consultation the couple will be able to book in their engagement shoot. The engagement shoot needs to be booked in at the latest six weeks before the wedding and can be at a location of the couple's choice, such as the location of the proposal, the wedding venue, etc (preferably outside). The engagement shoot will last between an hour and two hours and the vengament video will be ready to view online via vimeo within four weeks of the engagement shoot.
