FOR SECONDARY SCHOOL AND COLLEGE STUDENTS

HOW TO SAVE A LIFE

What does it mean to save a life? In our minds we often imagine heroic doctors cutting out tumours, clamping arteries, and pulling people back from the brink, but most of medicine is not like that. Join Dr Neil Singh for the second of Brighton and Sussex Medical School's monthly lecture series, as he discusses how, as a GP, he has the privilege of helping people - sometimes in moments of crisis, but usually in less glamorous ways, long before disaster has occurred.

Wednesday 8th January, 6:30pm - 7:30 pm

Chowen Lecture Theatre, Medical Teaching Building

Tickets are free but must be booked online at: <https://bit.ly/2JA7lUJ>
