The Use of Expressive Arts in Play Therapy

Have you been intrigued by the use of expressive arts as a counseling intervention, but unsure how to implement or assess these strategies? This workshop is designed to equip the clinician with a rich set of activities that will enhance the work of play therapy during real-time interactions with clients. Drawing, painting, music, collages, psychodrama, and other forms of nonverbal communication can allow the counselor deeper access into the worldview of the client and provide for therapeutic breakthroughs.

Come join us as we explore the use of expressive arts in a play therapy setting. Experience the freedom of deeper communication and rapport with clients as they work through issues of trauma and abuse.

Facilitated By:

Shannon M. Eller, LPC, LMFT, CPCS, CCS, RPT, CCAADC, CCDP-D, AAMFT
Approved Supervisor
