What If

The following article was written by Bruce & Barb Beeman, Deputy Directors, Regions B & E., and was published in the February 2016 edition of the Insight Newsletter on the GWRRA website.

What if we looked at obstacles as opportunities?

What if we opened our minds to opportunities we never dreamed possible?

What if we set goals for ourselves, Chapter, District, or Region that are realistic?

Sounds pretty simple, Right? However, we ourselves make it difficult to accomplish.

Think about it, if you said to yourself "This year I'm going to set a goal of 100 new Members" and you're currently averaging one new Member a year. The moment that goal left your lips; you already have a laundry list of all the reasons why you cannot achieve that goal. These two words "What if" have stuck with me. They are powerful and thought provoking.

With only a month into the New Year, I have a question. Have you and your team come up with strong goals and visions?

How can goals and visions help you and your Chapter, District, or Region?

- . By attracting Members to stay and visitors to join.
- . This keeps your Chapter focused.
- . Challenges people and helps change mindsets.
- . Gives a fantastic way to get our Members out of the drama and focus on the bigger "Why" (Bonus – end the Drama!)

Your appointing officers and your National team are here to support you and your teams with any questions you may have. Feel free to contact us at any time. We want you to have an amazing experience and we are supporting you to reach your goals.

If you are working on something exciting, the vision will pull you. Goals and Visions are crucial items in the success of any organization. To maintain a more forward motion to where you are headed you must have clarity.

Here are the questions you should ask your Members and team Members to achieve their direction.

1. What size would you like to see the Chapter, District, or Region grow? And how?
2. What would you like to see out of the Leadership Team?
3. How do you want your Members to believe in Fun, Friends, and Safety?
4. How can you make your Members more knowledgeable about G.W.R.R.A.?
5. How will your visitors respond to their visit?
6. What separates your Chapter, District, or Region apart from others?
7. What do your visitors receive?
8. How can we increase attendance at Socials and Rally's?

Once you have your Goals and Visions determined, share them with your Members so they can help you achieve them as one team.

Let's What If in 2016.

COUPLE OF THE YEAR 2015 Bill and Esther Ford

We enjoyed attending Cabin Fever at Deer Creek. There were lots of activities to participate in, we attended some seminars and supported the vendors.

After the couple of the year seminar we (Bill & I) presented Roxey to Rick & Amy Jenkins the 2016 Couple of the year for Chapter F in Fairborn, Ohio. We hope they enjoy her visit.

INDIVIDUAL OF THE YEAR 2015 Ken Daft

SPRINGTIME

With the coming of spring we Goldwing Riders begin to roll out our hibernating Wings, dust and clean them to a shiny gloss, and then bring important maintenance up-to-date. We get them ready to roll and ourselves as well by wearing safe riding gear to enhance our safety.

And there's another change that happens. Life! At this time of year they say, "Life springs eternal!" How true. We see the buds appear, then the leaves, then the flowers, then the fragrance. A lilt fills our lives and a promise of good riding weather excites our spirits. We are READY TO GO!

Yet something else has changed. Our schedules fill up and our listless lives over a dreary winter "spring" to life by engaging the most valuable part of us: life itself. I believe you agree with me when I write, "Life is more than stuff and life is more than change." The essence of life is in GIVING IT AWAY! "And just how do we do that?" you may ask. Allow me to give a few ideas.

I have a friend down the street from where I live. I would speak to him whenever he was in his driveway, but he would not respond very much until the day I began to talk to him about his Toyota Tundra truck. To make a long story short, we are now very good friends. What changed? My life intersected with his. I sought to give my life away and did so by seeing Bob as a friend and continuing to take initiative to know him. It was risky for sure. And the more I came to know about Bob and the more he came to know me only built a bond we enjoy today. Life is truly life only when you give it away.

Now for a challenge; which member of B3 do you know the least? How many do you know well? Are you and I willing to risk it to know a member better? And why should we do this? Because of our connections go beyond our close friends, our biker enthusiasm, our B3 & GWRRRA memberships. We are not "ships passing in the night." Life is about life.

Life is giving one's self away to others. That's when I find life. My Lord taught us this when He said, "Whoever finds his life will lose it, and whoever loses his life for my sake will find it." Good thoughts for spring.

MEMBERSHIP ENHANCEMENT PROGRAM

NOW YOU KNOW

Henry Ford used to say, "Service isn't always good, but if it isn't good, it can't be service". To fully appreciate how a Chapter provides service to the Member's we should first define "Service". According to the dictionary, service is the act of providing aid, or a helpful activity - and taking Mr. Ford's quote into consideration; it has to be done well. 'WOW', that is exactly what we do and I believe we do it exceptionally well!!! Members are always willing to help another Member - whether it is a needed repair to their Gold Wing (or any brand) or help with a project around their home.

In times of need, GWRRA Members are always there - even for total strangers who called a number from the GOLD BOOK.

Chapter Educators provide potentially life-saving advice on safe riding plus helpful information on maintaining our motorcycles. Whether it is Rider Ed. training on improving our riding skills or Leadership Training benefiting our personal or professional life, GWRRA training is always of the highest quality. For GWRRA Members, help, or service, is never farther away than the nearest telephone.

I am sure everyone can think of many other things which will support this "VISION" statement for GWRRA.....

THE MORE YOU KNOW, THE BETTER IT GETS!!!!!!

Dino in the Mirror, Do you remember this?

If you were one of the millions of people around the world who went to the movie Jurassic Park, then when you saw this during the movie, you chuckled, giggled, snickered, or laughed out loud.

As adult drivers, we recognize the warning on our car side mirrors that let us know that objects we see are closer than they look in the mirror. We use that information to determine where other vehicles are beside us, how fast an object is moving up on us, and especially tell us WHAT is beside us (if it has large teeth, go the other way).

In 2016 the Share the Road campaign revolves around you as you drive down the road. Is it the T-Rex, a semi-truck, another car, a big pickup truck or one or more motorcycles? NHTSA has set June 20, 2016 as National Ride to Work Day (for those who don't already ride their motorcycle to work) and of course, May 2016 as Motorcycle Safety Awareness Month. The campaign material includes this:

If it's hard to see, there is a motorcycle and rider in that side mirror.

Based on what I saw just this past weekend, riding season this year may be very long. To see riders out in the middle of February in Ohio, I wasn't surprised because of the weather, but was a bit unprepared. I could hear Gary complaining because he didn't have his bike.

The point is that a long riding season brings the potential of drivers to become complacent to bikers and drop their awareness. The two NHTSA campaigns help bring the awareness back to the front of drivers minds.

So whether you are the "get the bike out as soon as the temperature hits 50", or the conservative "I'll wait 'til it's warmer", be aware that drivers in our winter states are having to reacquaint themselves with watching for bikers, not just slippery roads.

RIDER EDUCATION Gary Ballou

Rider Ed for March 2016

February was a pretty awesome month for Chapter B3. Our hard work (& Bill Ford's dedication at keeping the paperwork together on our behalf) last year was rewarded, as we were recognized as the Ohio District Chapter of the Year for 2015. In a complete surprise to me, I was also honored by our District Educator Robert G Williams as his choice for Ohio District Chapter Educator of the Year.

Usually, I only get noticed when I've fouled something up. It's a nice change of pace, but I'm not going to get used to it. I'll be right back to normal after that first missed-turn-requiring-a-J-turn when group riding season is underway. There is nothing like the teasing from our friends, to keep us humble.

If you happen to read this before the March 5 Chapter Gathering... PLEASE TRY TO COME. I will be presenting a brand new seminar on Distracted Driving. Some of you may have seen this program, when it was beta-tested at Wing Ding last year in Huntsville. You should want to invite non-motorcycling friends and family to see this one too. If we can convince enough drivers about the dangers of playing with their dn phone while driving. Lives can be saved. Maybe your own. Spread the word!!

Now that Spring is almost here, we will be getting our precious motorcycles out of hibernation.

So let's start spreading the word again to our four-wheeled friends:

WATCH OUT FOR MOTORCYCLES!

Gary Ballou
Rider Educator Ohio Chapter B-3
Ohio District Chapter Educator of the Year 2015

The following timely article was originally written by former RE of Chapter OH-U2, Robin Koontz. He has several suggestions we should always remember to keep in mind, when performing a common task:

Fill 'er Up!

There is something that one just has to do every so often if that person wants to continue their pleasure; that is to shell out some money and put some old decayed dinosaur matter into their gas tank. And this is a task that, if one thinks about it, can be deadly!

Everyone remembers that scene from "First Blood", where Rambo drives the army truck (what we old army hands call a 'deuce-and-a-half") that he stole into a gas station and right over the gas pumps, and then ignites them! Fiery plumes reaching for the sky make for a vivid visual. And there are the few people who wonder why the pumps didn't get blown into orbit?

Well, liquid gas doesn't explode: It burns. Gas VAPORS explode.

Now, back to our Gold Wings; your gas gauge is getting down there, so you start looking for a fueling point. The cheapskates will drive an extra ten miles out of the way to save two cents a gallon (net saved...10 cents) and burn twenty cents worth of gas doing it. Some have their favorite station, or have a gasoline card that gets them frequent-flier miles or something if you buy their gas. But you find your gas station.

Now, do you put the pump on your right or left? Most will put the pump on the left, unless the only open spot is on the right, and you haven't mastered the ability to do a U-turn in a sixteen foot circle to put the pump on your left. (More reason to do some parking lot practice.)

Mechanically, it doesn't matter to the bike which side it gets its gas from. But as you approach the pump, you have to watch where you are driving. Oil, transmission fluid, radiator coolant, and other vile viscous substances are often on the ground. People add oil to their vehicles, and spill half of it because they do not have a funnel, and it just goes all over the engine, to drip on the ground. So you have to put your feet out like pontoons to keep from skidding, and try to maintain a good foot grip with the pavement. There are too many witnesses to drop the bike gracefully.

One school of thought is, as you position yourself next to the raised island that houses the gas pump, which your co-rider, or even yourself, might be able to have a nice high platform to step onto as you get off the bike. If there is enough room, go ahead and do so. Just remember how far the bike leans over to the left before it settles on the kickstand.

There are those that feel coordinated enough that they can do everything without leaving the comfort of their seat. You see them jockeying that nozzle between their legs. Awkward. You've got to remember; the gas tank is underneath you. If you are putting fuel in it, it must be mostly empty of liquid. It is not empty of vapors. Gas vapors go boom if a spark is created near it. And a spark can be caused by the fumbling around one does while trying to maneuver that nozzle between their legs. And when it goes boom, you go up. Right up into the overhead canopy that most gas stations have. Ouch!

Other things can create a spark. Leaving your power on to listen to the ball game is not good. Keeping the power on for the electric vests is not good. Talking on a cellphone near a pump is not good. And if you want to smoke while refueling, do not do it anywhere around me.

When you put the nozzle into the gas tank, let it touch the edge of the opening, thus grounding the connection. This dissipates the static electricity. And don't fill it to the brim. Gas expands as it gets hot. A gas tank that split at the seams one mile down the road will get into the local newspaper.

Do you put the premium gas in, or go for the cheap stuff? The manual says that 89 octane* is just fine, unless you hear a lot of knocking in your engine. (*Editor's note: When Robin wrote this, he was referring to a GL1500; the GL1800 book says 86 or higher) Then maybe try a tank of the good stuff to see if it helps. Odds are if it is knocking, something else is going on, and you might want to have it looked at by a mechanic.

After you fuel up, put the cap back on, reposition the vacuum tube connected to the cap so it is not kinked (another reference to the GL1500), walk around the trusty steed. Do a T-CLOCK on it. Dangling wires, tires looking low, a piece of chrome that is missing; whatever. If you are pulling a trailer, grab the trailer tongue and YANK it upwards.

Check the electrical connection to the trailer, the chains also.

Oh, and pay for the gas before you leave. We must keep our image clean with the public. Perform any other bodily needs in the appropriate areas provided.

Take the opportunity to clean the windshield while you're stopped (hard to do while you're moving). Don't use the things the gas station provides for cars. There are all sorts of grit that will ruin your non-glass windshield in the cleaning solutions they have. Use that water-drenched towel you keep in a zip-lock bag to soak your windshield, then a dry cloth to wipe it off.

Mount up, make a com-check with the others in your group, move to the staging area to wait on the others, and move on out.

Gary Ballou

Have fun, but be safe. “Dress for the Slide, Not for the Ride”
