

You Can't Afford NOT to Have ALETS!

Employing a conventional security system DOES NOT provide gunshot detection and notification!

Historically, gunshot detection was designed and developed for large scale military deployment. The cost to acquire this technology has been prohibitive. However, with the alarming increase in gunshot violence in our country, gunshot detection has been reformulated into an affordable and appropriate solution that can be used both indoors and outdoors.

ALETS features a gunshot detection solution that is affordable and provides a wealth of vital information first responders need to address an active shooter situation.
