

Orientation to Clay Shooting

Short Description: Clay shooting introduction, techniques, gear, and safety.

More Details: This is a three-hour course for beginning clay shooters that is conducted in the classroom only. Students are taught how to get started, including types of clay shooting; safety; common equipment for different types of clay shooting; use and purpose of common equipment; shooting etiquette; how to get more involved; and where to participate. This class is designed for those that have very little or no clay shooting experience and want to become more comfortable in this environment. This class is for those that have questions they were curious about and where afraid to ask. Please bring your questions if you want to know something specific about any of the subjects covered in this class. We are eager to help start taking the mystery out of clay shooting for you. This class does NOT include any clay shooting but will prepare you to shoot clays. All activities are held in a classroom setting.
