

Orientation to Handguns II

Short Description: Handgun introduction, responsibility, shooting, and safety training.

More Details: This is a three-hour (with an hour of additional live fire time) course for safe handgun handling and shooting that is conducted in the classroom with a shooting component. There is a pre-requisite of Orientation to Handguns I or NC CCH Class prior to taking this class. Students are taught the rules for safe gun handling; basic cleaning and care; range protocol; application of pistol shooting fundamentals; stable shooting positions and presentation; and live fire. These classes are designed for those that have handled handguns very little or not at all and want to become more comfortable around them at home, in your environment, and at the range. This class is for those that have questions they were curious about and where afraid to ask and those that are anxious around handguns and would like to become more comfortable. Please bring your questions if you want to know something specific about any of the subjects covered in this class. We are eager to help start taking the mystery and anxiety out of handguns for you. This class does include live fire activities.
