Services, Interventions, Treatments and Resources

I. Introduction

About the Directory

This Directory was developed by the Trauma-Informed Community Initiative of Western New York Coalition as part of its Greater Buffalo Trauma-Informed System of Care Community Plan (available at <http://www.chfwcnny.org/Tools/Broadcaster/frontend/item.asp?ItemID=327>), which aims to lay the groundwork for a widespread, coordinated community effort to address trauma in an impactful and sustainable way.

The Directory is intended to serve as a public resource for service providers and individuals looking for information on trauma-informed, trauma-sensitive and trauma-specific services, interventions, treatments and resources available or offered in the Greater Buffalo area.

Information included in the Directory regarding behavioral health providers and practitioners providing trauma-informed, trauma-sensitive and trauma-specific services, interventions, treatments in the Greater Buffalo area is based on the listed providers' and practitioners' self-report to the Coalition, and is accurate as of this date of publication.

The Directory also includes information on nationally recognized, evidence-based trauma-informed, trauma-sensitive and trauma-specific interventions, organizational models and tools.

Trauma: What it is, who it affects and how, and why we should care

Everyone, at one time or another, experiences stress. In fact, being 'stressed' is so common that many people do not realize the effect it could have on their physical and mental well-being, or when feeling stressed crosses over to being traumatized. When an individual experiences a situation that overwhelms his or her ability to cope, the event is said to be traumatic.

The adverse effects of trauma, especially trauma experienced as a child, have long been recognized as negatively affecting emotional well-being, increasing the likelihood of drug and alcohol use and abuse; school truancy and poor learning habits; and increasing the incidences of depression and anxiety. Recently, researchers have been able to demonstrate a direct link between trauma and physical well-being. Individuals who experience trauma are more likely to develop high blood pressure, diabetes, cardiac disease and other chronic ailments.

In late 2008, a small group of Health Leadership Fellows began meeting to explore how the community might develop a trauma-informed system of care to address this pervasive public health risk. With the assistance of the Health Foundation for Western & Central New York, this small group has grown into a coalition of individuals from a wide range of organizations committed to the implementation of its Greater Buffalo Trauma-Informed System of Care Community Plan (available at <http://www.chfwcnny.org/Tools/Broadcaster/frontend/item.asp?ItemID=327>). For a complete list of Coalition members accurate as of this date of publication, May 22, 2013, please see Section IV of this Directory.

The Trauma-Informed Community Initiative of Western New York Coalition is pleased to make this directory available to the Greater Buffalo community. Our hope is that you find the information useful and relevant to those you serve.

Disclaimer: This information has been collected by the Trauma-Informed Community Initiative of Western New York on a self-reporting basis and is provided “as is”, and TICIWNY and its members and affiliates make no claims or warranties, either express or implied, and the presentation of this material is not, nor should it be construed as, any recommendation, accreditation or certification on their part.

Carol Ross, LCSW-R, Supervising Social Worker

The Niagara County Department of Mental Health has a long standing history of providing Trauma specific services. The Department operated the Niagara County Rape Crisis Program for many years and also developed and operated a grant funded Crime Victims Board Trauma Therapy Services program that initially served Adult Survivors of Childhood Sexual Abuse and was later expanded to incorporate additional victims of crime, including Domestic Violence, Rape/Sexual Assault, Physical Assault, Adult Survivors of Homicide Victims, and Significant others of the identified crime victim populations noted above. The Trauma services component then evolved further and the separate grant funded program was reorganized so the Trauma Therapy Services are now incorporated into the Departments two Adult Mental Health Outpatient Clinics one site located in Lockport and one located in Niagara Falls. The clinicians, who provided therapy and adjunct services for many years in the separate grant programs, now continue to provide trauma therapy services in our two Adult Mental Health Outpatient Clinics. Additionally, all clinical staff, clerical staff, and billing staff have received training on Trauma Informed Care provided by Sue Green, LCSW. Clinical staff participate in trainings on various topics and webinars to enhance skills and service provision. Trauma therapy services are available in our two Niagara County Department of Mental Health Adult Mental Health Outpatient Clinics one in Lockport located at 5467 Upper Mountain Rd, Shaw Bldg, Lockport, NY 14094 – Phone: 716-439-7400 Fax: 716-439-7521 and one in Niagara Falls at the Trott Access Center, 1001 11th St., Niagara Falls, NY 14301 – Phone: 716-278-1940 Fax: 716-278-1943
