First Aid at Work (Requalification)

The Level 3 Award in First Aid at Work (Requalification) (QCF) course complies with the Health and Safety (First Aid) Regulations 1981.

It is aimed at First Aiders who hold a current three year First Aid at Work certificate, but who are near the expiry date. First Aiders may attend this course up to three months before their certificate expires and up to one month after expiry of the certificate.

The course refreshes the essential knowledge and skills that First Aiders need to carry out their role and deal confidently with major and minor injuries and illnesses.

Assessment:

Assessment is by continual observation throughout both days and multiple choice examinations at the end of each day.

Please note that photographic ID is required in order to sit the exams. Successful delegates will receive an Awards certificate, valid for a further three years. Students will be required to bring their existing First Aid at Work certificate to the first day of the course.
