Q & A

Q. What are the options available when making a custom bag?

A. There are a large number of alterations that can be made to a bag to ensure that it precisely matches your application. These changes can be done individually, or in combinations, depending on your needs. The list below contains many, but not all, of the custom options we have to offer you.

And if you don't see the particular option you are looking for, please call our custom product experts at 800-945-3800.

Vent Hole – A small hole is added to the bag to allow air and moisture to pass through the bag

Hang Hole – A hole is added to the bag, usually near the top, allowing it to hang on a hook or have a tie inserted

Eyelet/Grommet – A hang hole reinforced with a metal ring to help keep the bag from tearing

Flap Lock – A lip folded back and sealed on the sides, allowing it to be flipped over to lock in the contents of the bag

Lip – Making one side of the bag longer at the opening, allowing the bag to be closed by folding over the longer side… can be used with a glue strip

Glue Strip – A line of adhesive added to the bag to make it self-sealing…can be permanent or resealable

Imprinting – Adding words and/or graphics in one or more colors to the bag

Write-on Area – A white area imprinted on the bag allowing it to be written on

Pocket – Adding another sheet of plastic to the bag, usually sealed on three sides, to provide additional, separate storage

Perforation – A line of small holes placed on a bag to make it easier to tear off or open…can also be used to make a tamper-evident bag

Die-Cut Handle – A carrying handle cut into the top of the bag

Header – A separate, sealed area at the top of the bag, often used to allow a sealed bag to have a hang hole

Zipper – A strong, reclosable seal that can be added to many different types of bags

THE DOs & DON'Ts OF PLASTIC BAG RECYCLING

DO find out if your curb side recycling program will accept plastic bags. If not, many of your local department and grocery stores are now collecting used plastic bags for recycling.

DON'T recycle the wrong type of plastic bags. Most programs only accept type 2 – HDPE (High Density Polyethylene) bags and type 4 – LDPE & LLDPE (Low & Linear Low Density Polyethylene) bags.

DO check with your recycler before adding other types of plastic film. While some programs do recycle used dry cleaning bags, newspaper bags, and pallet wrap, many are still only accepting type 2 and type 4 plastic bags.

DON'T recycle bags that are in any way contaminated. Bags that have been in direct contact with food or other organic matter are not accepted. Additionally, bags with added features such as zippers, drawstrings, rigid handles, etc. are not usually recyclable. And make sure that all bags to be recycled are completely empty, clean and dry…even small amounts of contaminants will ruin the recycling process.

TABLETOP AUTO BAGGING MACHINE

Compact tabletop machine makes opening, filling, and sealing bags quick, easy, and affordable. Auto bagging machine blows air into pre-opened bags on a roll for easy insertion of items. Semi-automatic, electrically powered machine requires no compressor to use. Simply fill bag, separate at the perforation, insert into sealer, and activate foot switch to advance the next bag to be filled. Sealer has adjustable controls to provide precise heating and cooling timing to create high quality, consistent seals. Works with poly and anti-static pre-opened bags on a roll from 2" to 12". Impulse sealer creates up to a 12" seal.

COEXTRUDED POLY MAILING BAGS FOR AUTOBAG® MACHINES

Super-strong mailers are made from multiple layers of coextruded film and have supreme puncture-, moisture-, and tear-resistance. Perforated, pre-opened bags on a roll are convenient for large mailings and saves on packing time. Postal compliant bags have non-gloss finish to make scanning easier. ⅛" vent hole in bags helps to remove excess air and makes packaging easier. Film is specially treated for thermo printing. HOW TO CHOOSE

The Right Liner Material For Your Specific Needs

Low Density Polyethylene – Industry favorite for everyday packaging needs, low density material provides good clarity. Ideal for packaging small parts.

Linear Low Density Polyethylene – Lighter and lower cost than standard low density liners, gauge can be cut up to 30%. Material provides improved stretch and puncture resistance for heavier items.

High Density Polyethylene – Extremely lightweight, star-sealed liners provide the strength of low density liners at savings in weight of 50% resulting in a substantial cost savings. High density material is also an excellent moisture barrier.

Metallocene – Higher stretch and strength allows for a gauge reduction of 25% and a cost savings of 10% compared to low density liners. The metallocene formulation greatly improves both clarity and puncture resistance.

Titanium – High-stretch, ultra-strong material allows for reducing gauge without sacrificing performance. Opaque material combines maximum puncture resistance with a tough, star-sealed bottom for your heaviest loads.

All items ship Standard Ground unless otherwise noted or requested.

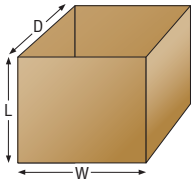
HOW TO MEASURE

Covers And Liners



EXAMPLE:
(W) Width – 50"
(D) Depth – 44"
(L) Length – 48"

FOR A COVER: Add approximately 4" to either width or depth for a loose fit. For length add one half of depth to actual length.

(W) 50" + 4"	= 54"	Size to Order
(D) 44"	= 44"	54" x 44" x 70"
(L) 48" + 22"	= 70"

FOR AN INNER LINER: Use same procedure as above for width and depth. For length, add all of depth to actual length plus a few inches for overlapping the ends of liner.

(W) 50" + 4"	= 54"	Size to Order
(D) 44"	= 44"	54" x 44" x 96"
(L) 48" + 44" + 4"	= 96"

Electrically Conductive Flat Bags

Protect circuit boards and other sensitive devices from harmful build-up of isolated static charges. Carbon added to low density polyethylene creates a strong, dense barrier that dissipates charges more effectively than standard anti-static poly bags. Opaque quality slows carbon deterioration to extend shelf life. Tested surface resistivity: 31,000 ohms/sq. in. Call for details about custom sheet, tubular, or zipper styles. Heat sealers available (pp. 100-101).

Anti-Static Poly Dust Caps

Versatile, anti-static caps slip on and off easily and help reduce static build-up in static sensitive items. Economical, elastic-banded, reusable caps fit tightly over round or non-circular containers to keep out dirt and moisture. Translucent pink poly allows for quick identification of contents.

ZERUST® VCI ANTI-RUST POLY BAGS AND LINERS

Treated poly emits odorless, invisible, and non-toxic vapors that prevent ferrous surfaces from rusting during shipping and storage. Chemical additive in film won't flake, stick, or damage contents. Does not contain amines, phosphates, or amines in combination with nitrites and nitrates. Environmentally safe. Use gusseted poly liners to protect items that could corrode over time, especially when assembly line products are waiting for the next step of the process. Usable dimensions of zipper bags are slightly smaller. Call for details about VCI bubble and foam, custom sizes and printing. See "Q & A" (opposite page) for more information.

Q & A

Q. What is corrosion?

A. Corrosion is initiated when atmospheric moisture (humidity) settles on metals. This moisture acts as a conducting medium for the flow of ions and electrons between high-energy areas (anodes) on metal surfaces. This electrochemical process then results in the visible oxidation referred to as tarnish, corrosion, or rust, depending on the metal.

Q. What is the difference between ferrous and non-ferrous protection?

A. All metals can be classified as either ferrous or non-ferrous. Ferrous metals, such as steel or cast iron, contain iron. Non-ferrous metals include aluminum, copper, brass, bronze, fully galvanized steel and other multi-metal alloys.

Use Zerust® VCI anti-rust products to protect ferrous metals (except Plastabs® and Vapor Capsules which offer multi-metal protection) and Cortec® VpCI® anti-corrosion products for the protection of both ferrous and non-ferrous metals.

Q. Do my products need to be in contact with the anti-rust/anti-corrosion packaging to be protected?

A. Contrary to popular belief, the packaging does not need to touch the product that needs to be protected, only the vapors do!

Simply place metal parts into the packaging products that we offer, or use them as a wrap inside a sealed package. Once sealed, the interior of the package will become saturated with vapor molecules and a powerful corrosion inhibiting molecular layer will coat the enclosed metal items. When the sealed package is opened, this layer quickly evaporates, leaving behind clean, dry and corrosion-free parts that are ready for immediate use and require no further cleaning or handling.

VpCI® ANTI-CORROSION KRAFT PAPER

Recyclable non-toxic alternative to poly film, treated kraft paper offers comparable protection of ferrous and non-ferrous metals from corrosion. Does not require airtight seal. Maintains protection for at least 24 months during dry storage inside, and for six months when stored outside and properly shielded from direct moisture.

CABLE TIE MOUNTS

Organize and bundle wires and cables easily. Choose from acrylic or rubber based adhesive backing. Cable ties slide into mounts and stick to a variety of surfaces. Rubber backing has a faster set and moderate strength. Use rubber backing mount for steel, aluminum, rubber, and more. Acrylic backing has a longer set and a higher strength. Use acrylic adhesive mount when you are applying to steel, aluminum, and glass. Nylon ties sold separately (p. 93), maximum tie width is .130" and maximum thickness is .054".

PUSH MOUNT AND SCREW MOUNT CABLE TIES

Saves time when positioning wires or cables. Tie with push-in mount is a faster, all-in-one solution to bundling. Tamper-evident push mount ties wrap around bundle and can be pushed into a pre-drilled hole in wall and locks into place. Screw mount cable ties secure wires easily. Self-locking ties screw or bolt into walls or other surfaces. Ties work with no. 10 screws, not included.

IMPULSE HEAT SEALERS WITHOUT CUTTING BLADE

Seals polypropylene and polyethylene bags and tubing up to 6 mil thick – no warm-up required. Flat element sealer does not melt through bags and tubing; use scissors or other cutting instrument to trim bag tops and tails. Creates super strong, tamper-evident tail flap seal. Sealer with round trim-and-seal element melts through bags and tubing to create tamper-evident seal without tail flap (seal is thinner and opens more easily). Heavy duty sealers can be used on poly materials up to 8 mil thick and leaves a 3 mm seal width. Equipped with a solid-state timer for consistent seals. Service kits sold separately. Call for details about additional replacement parts.

All items ship Standard Ground unless otherwise noted or requested.

IMPULSE HEAT SEALERS WITH CUTTING BLADE

Flat element sealer with cutting blade creates super strong, tamper-evident seals. Just press down armature to seal, then slide the built-in cutting blade to trim. Blade cuts within ¼" of seal and a short tail flap remains. Seals up to 6 mil thick polypropylene and polyethylene bags and tubing. No warm-up required. Service kits sold separately. Call for details about additional replacement parts.

Non-water based adhesive-backing holds up longer. Recommended usage for 30 days or less. Use with synthetic carpeting only. Strip door kits

Create your own vinyl strip door system. Choose from four complete and easy-to-install options that include pre-cut strips and aluminum mounting hardware. Smooth, scratch-resistant, low temp, and amber styles prevent dust, air and noise from moving between areas. Smooth style is clear for two-way visibility. Scratch-resistant vinyl strips are heavy-duty and ribbed so strips do not scratch one another. Kits with orange safety strips identify hazard areas as well as marking door jambs and high traffic areas. Use the low temp style for coolers, freezers and other USDA inspected facilities. Vinyl strips are reinforced with nylon and stay flexible down to -20°F. Smooth amber vinyl style protects employees outside of welding areas from UV flash and sparks.

Q & A

Q. What is the difference between back-loading and front-loading envelopes?

A. Both types of envelopes have certain advantages over the other, depending on your needs:

Back Loading Envelopes feature a slit in the back of the envelope, through which paperwork is inserted. This forms a tamper-evident pocket for papers, and must be cut or torn to gain access to the contents once the envelope has been applied to a surface. The tamper-evident nature of these products means that they can only be used once. High Density Back Loading Envelopes have a thinner facing than the Standard Back Loading Envelopes and thus their clarity is higher. The Opaque Back Loading Envelopes prevent the contents from being seen, providing a greater degree of protection for sensitive information.

Front Loading Envelopes have a pocket that can be left open to allow repeated insertion and retrieval of the contents. Recessed Face Front Loading Envelopes have a facing that is shorter than the backing. This provides quick, easy access for slipping in or taking out contents. Some customers utilize these envelopes labeling drawers, displaying inventory tags, keeping warranty cards close or even for containing x-rays inside patient files. A Front Loading Envelope with Overlip has a lip where the front facing is longer than the backing. This lip can be left open for reuse or can be tucked around and sealed underneath the envelope. This is especially useful for warehouse or tracking cards, job tickets, warranty info or manifest logs.

PRESS-ON ENVELOPES

Just peel and stick to protect invoices and shipping documents from dirt and moisture. Pressure-sensitive adhesive sticks aggressively to paper, metal, wood, corrugated, or plastic. Back-loading styles form tamper-evident pocket for papers. Pocket must be torn or cut open to retrieve papers. Front-loading envelopes act as an open pocket for repeated insertion and retrieval of papers. Open end is first dimension listed. Call for details about removable and high tack adhesive and custom printing.

POLYPROPYLENE STRAPPING MACHINE

An easy to use and economical solution to improve bundling and packaging efficiency. Light-weight, portable, semi-automatic machine works with polypropylene strapping only. Short width of slide table makes bundling irregularly shaped items easier. Open strapping area makes it easy to identify when a new roll needs to be loaded. Allows for adjustment of strapping sizes from 1/4" to 5/8" and adjustable tension ranges from 10 - 100 lbs. Machine heat seals the strapping so seals are not needed. Requires a 110 or 220 volt power source.

Q & A

Q. How do I choose the best strapping for my particular products?

A. Each type of strapping has certain advantages over the other, depending on the application:

Polypropylene Strapping is economical, lightweight, and quick to apply. The embossed surface strengthens the strap dimensionally and allows for the use of inexpensive non-scored seals. The industry standard for bundling corrugated boxes, printed materials, and boxed food, polypropylene strapping is also ideal for many other light to medium duty, bundling, unitizing, and palletizing applications.

Polyester Strapping offers the greatest strength, rigidity, and retained tension of all plastic strapping. Smooth, weatherproof polyester won't rust or stain products, is 80% lighter than steel strapping, and uses sturdy, scored seals. Great for heavier-duty applications like bundling lumber or building materials, and rigid palletizing.

Steel Strapping is the strongest of all strapping materials. Recommended when high strength and shock resistance are essential. Commonly used to bundle and palletize structural steel, building stone, and rail car shipments. Steel's strength and durability are ideal for dealing with heavy, sharp, or hot materials.

RIBBON WOUND STEEL STRAPPING AND CART

Heavy-duty strapping is good for securing sharp edged objects, or bundling and pallet banding. Ribbon wound strapping is lighter because it is wound onto itself so that the width of the coil is the same as the strap. Dispenser cart is designed for ribbon wound steel strapping rolls, can hold up to 3 coils, and has space to store tools and seals. Cart has oversized wheels for easy handling.

Q & A

Q. Can I recycle my used packing peanuts?

A. While you can't dump them in your recycling bin, there are several ways to keep your used packing peanuts from ending up in the trash:

Reuse them yourself. This method not only eliminates the energy needed to transport or recycle the packing peanuts, it also saves you money! Reusing packing peanuts lets you reduce your costs for packing supplies, while reducing the amount of raw materials used to produce peanuts.

Give them to others to reuse. If you are unable to reuse your own packing peanuts, there are likely many businesses in your area willing to accept them. Visit loosefillpackaging.com for information on businesses willing to take your used peanuts (You can also call the Plastic Loose Fill Council's Peanut Hotline at 800-828-2214). The collection sites are typically small packaging or gift shops that welcome the free packing material.

Recycle them. If there is no way to reuse your packing peanuts, recycling is recommended to keep them from going to a landfill. First, determine what materials can be recycled and where by contacting the department of public works in your community. For state recycling information, visit earth911.com, or call 800-CLEAN-UP.

Before you head to the recycling center, check to make sure that your peanuts can be recycled. Starch-based biodegradable packing peanuts will dissolve in water and can be safely washed down the drain. See above.

Q & A

Q. What is the difference between pressure sensitive and water activated tape?

A. Each type of tape has certain advantages over the other, depending on the application:

Pressure Sensitive Tape, commonly known as poly tape, provides a quick, easy, and inexpensive way to seal corrugated cartons. It can be applied without a dispenser, and is ideal for sealing light weight package goods that do not put stress on the box during shipping. The transparent nature of most pressure sensitive tapes allows it to be applied over pre-printed cartons and shipping labels without obscuring any important information. And because pressure sensitive tape does not form a permanent bond with the carton, it is preferred for storage applications where the contents of the carton will need to be accessed and re-taped.

Water Activated Tape or gummed tape, creates a strong, permanent bond when applied to a corrugated carton. Because it cannot be removed without visibly marking the box, it also creates a very secure, tamper-evident package. By bonding to the carton, water activated tape actually strengthens the container, making it ideal for heavier items that may stress the carton during shipment. This bonding also means only one layer of tape is needed to seal the carton, resulting in less tape being used. Any carton that will experience extremes in temperature, humidity, or UV exposure will benefit from the seal durability of water activated tape.

Dispensers for water activated tape can quickly output individual sections of tape at preset sizes, making it an ideal choice for industrial or high-volume applications. This consistency results in a uniform, attractive carton, suitable for display in a retail setting. See pages 292-293 and above for our selection of water-activated tapes and dispensers.

Glossary of Commonly Used Packaging Terms

Anti-Stat: Contains an anti-static additive that dissipates static electrical charges. Good for short-term storage.

Bags on a Roll: Continuous roll of tubing perforated under bottom seal. Bags must be torn off to open.

Barrier Film: Specially formulated film typically used to extend the shelf life of food products. Prevents transmission of moisture and gases.

Bottom Seal Bags: Individually cut bags from seamless tubing, sealed on the bottom. Flat or side gusseted bags with a strong seal – usually have a tail.

Clarity: Transparency of the film based upon surface gloss and haze.

Doorknob Bags: Side-weld bag, staple-packed with perforated lip and hole just below the top of the bag.

Electrically Conductive: Carbon-impregnated polyethylene bags providing exterior protection from static charges.

EVA: Ethylene Vinyl Acetate. Additive that strengthens and improves sealability. Appropriate for use in cold-temperature applications.

Faraday Cage: Provides both interior and exterior protection from static and other charges.

Flap Lock: Bag has lip folded back with side seals. Commonly known as a sandwich bag.

Flat Bags: Two-dimensional bag (width x length) with bottom and/or side seals.

Gauge: The thickness of material. The higher the gauge, the thicker the material.

Gusseted Bags: Flat style bag with both sides or bottom tucked in to form gussets. Designated with three dimensions; Side Gusset (width x depth x length) or Bottom Gusset (width x length + gusset).

Header Bags: Side-weld bag with continuous seal along top, 2"-3" below fold. Bag is loaded and sealed from the bottom and typically has a hang hole.

High Density Polyethylene: Thinner, yet stronger than low density polyethylene. Moisture and vapor barrier, non-porous.

Linear Low Density Polyethylene: Stronger than low density. Resistant to punctures and tears, non-porous, and stretchable.

Lip: One side of the bag is longer than the other, allows bag to open easily.

Low Density Polyethylene: Porous and somewhat stretchable. Does not possess barrier properties. Good clarity.

Metallocene: Thinner and stronger than low density polyethylene. Puncture resistant.

Mil: Thickness of material. The higher the mil, the stronger the material. (1/1000 inch = 1 mil)

Polyethylene: Highly puncture- and tear-resistant. Not affected by extreme temperatures. Good clarity.

Polypropylene: Stronger and more rigid than polyethylene. Preserves freshness with vapor and moisture barriers. Non-porous and excellent clarity. Ability to withstand high temperatures.

Reclosable Bags: Seal-top reclosable bags can be made with or without a tamper-evident adhesive seal. Also includes zipper and slider zipper bags.

Side Weld: Bags are sealed on the side. No bottom seal.

Slip: Additive that helps prevent bags from sticking to each other and promotes easy insertion of packaged goods.

Star Seal: Strongest bottom seal for liners that combines four sections in a star design. Seal maximizes carrying capacity.

Static Shielding: Four layer construction providing Faraday Cage protection. Offers greater protection than anti-static.

Tensile Strength: The force required to break through film and bags, or snap rope, cable ties, and wire by pulling on opposite ends. Determined by material thickness and width.

UVI: Ultra Violet Inhibitor. Additive diminishes the effect of sunlight breaking up the film and extends film life in sunlight conditions.

Wicketed Bags: Tear-off bags held in place by a metal wicket on the lip of the bag.

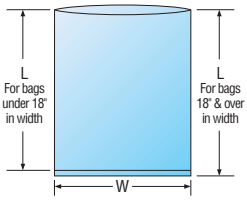
Zipper Bags

Width (W) x Length (L)

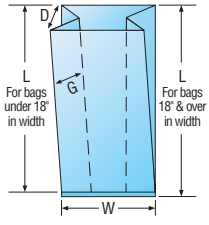
Zipper bag measurement does not include zipper and lip.



Flat Poly Bags

Width (W) x Length (L)

Bag widths under 18" do not include bottom tail in length measurement. Sizes 18" and over include bottom tail.



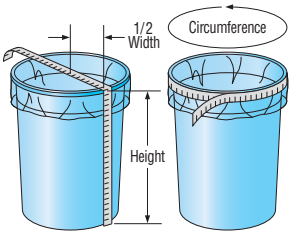
Side Gusseted Bags

Width (W) x Depth (D) x Length (L)

Depth = Gusset (G) x 2

The gusset is considered the depth of a bag.

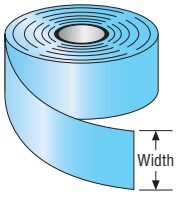
Bag widths under 18" do not include bottom tail in length measurement. Sizes 18" and over include bottom tail.



Can and Drum Liners

Length: Measure container height and add 1/2 the width, plus 4" for overhang. Choose exact size liner or next larger size for best fit.

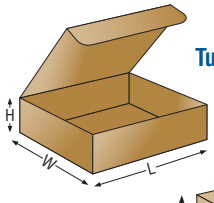
Circumference: Measure around container top. A flexible tape measure works best.



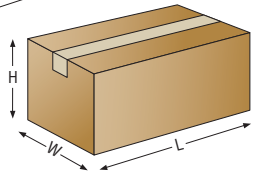
Layflat Tubing

Layflat Width = 1.57 x Diameter of Object

(round up to next size)



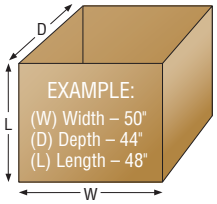
Tuck-Flap Boxes



Corrugated Boxes

Length (L) x Width (W) x Height (H)

(interior dimensions)



Covers and Liners

Cover: Add approximately 4" to either width or depth for a loose fit. For length add one half of depth to actual length.

(W) 50" + 4" = 54"

(D) 44" = 44"

(L) 48" + 22" = 70"

Size to Order: 54" x 44" x 70"

Inner Liner: Add approximately 4" to either width or depth for a loose fit. For length, add all of depth to actual length plus a few inches for overlapping the ends of liner.

(W) 50" + 4" = 54"

(D) 44" = 44"

(L) 48" + 44" + 4" = 96"

Size to Order: 54" x 44" x 96"

Six-month quote guarantee

We honor price quotes for 6 months, giving you plenty of flexibility to place your order when it suits you best.

Annual pricing agreements

We offer annual pricing agreements on qualifying orders, saving you time and money year-round!

Low prices every day, guaranteed

We have low everyday prices on thousands of quality products. But if you can find a lower published price, we'll not only meet, but beat that price!

Free test samples/custom orders

Free test samples are a great way to take the guesswork out of finding products to fit your needs. And if you don't find what you need, chances are we can make it for you. See page 320 for custom products.

100% satisfaction guarantee

We value your continued business. That's why we promise you total satisfaction with every order! If your order isn't perfect, we'll make it right with an even exchange, credit, or full refund.

365-day return policy

Most items can be returned within one year of receipt. Please contact Customer Service for instructions prior to return. Shipping charges should be prepaid unless otherwise arranged in advance, and all merchandise must arrive in saleable condition.

True Mil® supplier

Our products are thoroughly inspected to ensure their quality. Some distributors sell poly products downgauged by 20%. Though tolerances vary by product line, we guarantee that all of our poly products meet industry-specified thickness standards. That's what being a True Mil® supplier is all about.

No minimum order size

We don't have minimum order requirements. We'll gladly fill your order regardless of how large or small it is. Whether you're ordering one carton or 100, your order will never be denied because of arbitrary minimum dollar requirements.

No handling fees

We don't charge handling fees because, frankly, handling is our job, not yours! It's the value we add to the packaging products and shipping supplies you purchase. And, we don't bury handling fees in our prices either.
