The 3D paint system and teaching methodology has been extensively used and tested with students in all age groups and all skill levels. With the thousands of students who have used the Watson's 3D paint system the results have always been surprising and spectacular. It is without question the evolution of acrylic painting instruction and equally successful and fun in the formal teaching class as well as the 'paint at home' scenario.

ABOUT OUR PRODUCT

Creating art with a group of friends or family is one of the most rewarding experiences and explains the popularity of the 'paint & wine' phenomenon. The general idea has been to present a group with a flat canvas and have them enjoy a couple of hours of fun with their friends. There is little thought given to the end result or the educational aspect of painting. The majority of 'finished' canvases are never displayed. The reason for this is obvious - to have a rank amateur sit down in front of a blank canvas and be expected to create any painting above a basic level in that short length of time is simply impossible. This is where 'THE EVOLUTION OF PAINT & WINE' with the revolutionary new Watson's 3D paint system and lesson plans changes this.

There is a large variety of subject matter to select from and are expanded on a continuous basis, offering new and exciting 3D blanks designed for "paint & wine" venues, informal group painting sessions or for individual painting projects. We also encourage our clients and students to suggest new subject matter as all the original sculpture done at Watson's Art Gallery and therefore anything is possible. We can also create a subject matter for a venue that would be an exclusive and only to be used at that venue, please contact us to discuss these possibilities.

Watson's 3D Paint System has been developed for professional artists as well as amateurs. This system uses the advanced PR3 molding compound engineered as a highly paintable acrylic surface resulting in superior strength with outstanding indoor/outdoor applications. Each 3D paint blank is molded from an original Gil Watson sculptured signature piece. There is a large variety of subject matter to select from and various categories such as coastal, religious, African wildlife etc are expanded on a continuous basis, offering new and exciting 3D blanks designed for "paint & wine" venues, informal group painting sessions or for individual painting projects. The Watson's 3D System is far superior to the old flat canvas painting method as it offers a highly visible bridge between the abstract and the concrete when teaching the critical building blocks of acrylic painting. Emphasizing and re-enforcing the balance between light and shadow, blending techniques and contrast. The return rate of students using the Watson's 3D System at "paint & wine" venues is extremely high as first time uses obtain results that are far superior to any other format available, resulting in students wanting to paint more subject matter.
