The Three Components of the RGV Youth Preparedness Camp

- 1. Community Emergency Response Team (CERT) Training – All camp participants (including the adult sponsor) receive the full basic CERT course complete with certification. The basic CERT program is delivered as one component of camp in an effort to educate youth about disaster preparedness and provide them the skills they need to support local first responders in an emergency situation, if needed. This training includes lessons on fire safety, basic first aid, search and rescue, incident command system (ICS), and disaster psychology, among others. In addition to classroom-based lessons, youth are given ample opportunity to practice their skills through hands-on activities, tabletop discussions, and exercises. The CERT training culminates in a large full-scale exercise in which youth allocate resources, attend to live role playing victims, and interact with real first responders. The goal of this aspect of camp was to enhance the local community response and recovery capabilities as well as educate other community members on how to prepare for local hazards.
 - 2. Community Specific Action Planning – Each group will develop a community action plan aimed at preparing their local community. This action plan is a project related to school and/or community preparedness that the group and their adult sponsor will implement in their community when they returned home from camp. During this five-day planning process, groups will develop an objective, identify what is needed to achieve that objective, define the steps needed to complete the objective, and create a presentation to summarize the main points of their plan. The action planning component of camp ultimately facilitates preparedness activities in local communities through our youth.
 - 3. Leadership Development– Camp participants also participate in leadership development activities. These activities are aimed at empowering youth to lead preparedness in their community. Participants will be given opportunities to present to large groups, speak publically, and lead activities throughout the five days. Leadership development is an important aspect of camp because it prepares participants to assume a leadership role in their community, which is necessary for them to be successful in responding to a disaster situation as well implementing their community action plan.

Important Camp Information

CHECK-IN/REGISTRATION

Registration will be between 2:00-3:00 pm. When arriving on site, groups should proceed directly to registration at the North Complex Dining Hall. Groups should pull up to the building, unload their belongings, and check-in as a team. At this time, each participant will receive their dorm assignment. Camp staff will then direct participants to their dorms where they can unpack and relax until the opening session at 3:15 PM. All participants must arrive by 3:00 PM on Sunday, June 17, 2018 and stay the entire length of camp. Campers and adult sponsors are not permitted to leave campus for any reason due to the busy camp program. Please see the enclosed tentative agenda for the 2018 RGV Youth Preparedness Camp.

Camper or Sponsor Substitutions

If one of your campers or sponsors can no longer attend camp, find a substitute for the camper or sponsor as soon as possible. We have paid for a predetermined number of participants upfront, based on the number of registrations received. It is easiest to substitute a male for a male or a female for a female due to housing configurations. Ask your substitute to fill out a completed registration form as soon as possible and submit that form to us so that we can send them a confirmation packet as soon as possible.

3. Be sure each member of your camp team is in his or her dorm room from the nightly curfew through the morning

5. Make sure your campers follow the Code of Conduct and monitor their dress to make sure it is appropriate

The Role of Adults in the RGV Youth Preparedness Camp

The RGV Youth Preparedness Camp is designed and delivered using a youth-led, adult-assisted process. A youth-led, adult assisted model is one where youth participants are essentially the decision makers and the adults act in a supportive role. For example, youth should be the creators of the community action plan. Adult sponsors should monitor the development and implementation of the action plan by giving their input, suggestions, or responding to a youth participant request for assistance. Youth, as much as possible, should be in charge. Adult sponsors should participate in all camp activities and lessons to ensure they can provide appropriate feedback when it is requested.
