Lehigh Valley Guitar Company Brings Chaos to the Zoo
A Custom Guitar to Raise Money for the Animals

Fogelsville, P.A.: Chaos Guitars announced today that they will be building a custom guitar to help the Lehigh Valley Zoo with their first annual “Conservation Celebration Gala”. The Gala is being held at the Lehigh Valley Country Club on October 13, 2018. The custom-built guitar will be part of the Zoo’s silent auction and the proceeds will go to benefit animal care and enrichment among other services.

When asked about working with the Zoo, Chaos Guitars Creator said, “We are very excited about the opportunity to give a little back to the Zoo, I spent a lot of my childhood there and now spend a lot of time with my kids there, so we have tons of great family memories at the Zoo”. He also added “We (Chaos Guitars) are proud to be a local business and are proud to work with other local businesses. if we can help out a great family organization like the Zoo by creating one of our badass custom guitars...that’s just a no-brainer for us.”

Chaos Guitars prides themselves on customer service, something that seems to be missing in many of today’s businesses. Chaos Guitars is a small local custom shop that does all the work the “Big” shops do and the work they won’t. For Example,

- Custom paint and graphics
- Scalloped fretboards
- One of a kind electronics.
