Chaos Guitars announces their Artist Endorsement Program

A guitar company that treats it's Artists like family.

Fogelsville, P.A.: Chaos Guitars releases the terms for it's new Artist Endorsement Program today. The small custom guitar company nestled in Fogelsville P.A. announced that after much deliberation they have what they feel in a solid starting point to acquire new Chaos endorsed talent. These endorsements are mutually beneficial to the company and to the Artist.

Chaos Guitars has been toying with the idea of an endorsement program for some time now but not everyone agreed on what the program should be or if it should even happen in the first place. According to the founder, Dave Kite "We receive a lot of inquiries about endorsement deals, but most seem to end with the, 'So when do I get me free guitar' type of thinking, and that's just not how it works". A typical endorsement has levels and there are no major freebies unless its promotional items like tee-shirts or decals. Mr. Kite also stated "We didn't want the typical cold type of deal where the company benefits more than the Artist after all, I was that artist years ago and that's where I came from so it's a big part of me and my business today, that's why we want to maintain a family feel with our Artists".
