Further Opportunity Offered for Purchase of New Homes

Home seekers who found a "sold out" sign at Grandview Hollyglen, 135th St. and Aviation Blvd., last week, will get a second chance today.

Builders Edward K. Zuckerman and Barney R. Morris explained that a few homes have become available for purchase.

Terms for the three-bedroom, two-bath homes still remain nothing down for vets, except costs and impounds, with monthly payments unchanged from $70.73, it was reported.

Old Ranch Site

Located on the historic site of the O. T. Johnson ranch and near to employment centers in Southwest Los Angeles and community facilities such as churches, schools and shopping centers, a total of 1087 of the homes have been built

All are now occupied except for a few.

Top features include forced-air heating with five or six registers, large kitchens with natural finish cabinets, spacious living rooms with French doors.

The homes also feature over-size picture windows, ceramic tile showers, full-size bathtubs and full service porches. On display are furnished model homes which will be open all day until the final house is sold.
