

RAISED Dream Act II.

Prepared By: Quantum Corp.

Last weeks dialogue around border security, chain migration, ending the visa lottery, and revising DACA was productive. However, much work has yet to be done. Senator Graham has emerged from the debate wishing to take leadership on this initiative. Senator Graham's interest is most welcome, and he will undoubtedly shape the narrative of the debate working with Congressman Goodlatte. After the DACA meeting on January 11, 2018 Lindsey Graham stated, in response to a reporters DACA question that, "We are sharing it with our colleagues that deals with all the four areas that Kevin McCarthy outlined. Border security. DACA. Chain migration and diversity lottery. The president challenged that group that he met with a couple of days ago to come up with an idea. We have an idea. It's bipartisan. There is no deal. I want to shop around my colleagues and see what their appetite is." Senator Graham further stated that "the President was very gracious" in holding that meeting sharing the Company sentiment. "And I think he appreciated the fact that people are putting ideas forward." Making sure President Trump has the best solutions at his disposal is of the utmost importance. The Company has articulated various solutions to the Presidential Administration that have become more than relevant, and everyone that worked on this initiative should be congratulated. Years of hard work has brought us to this point. Moving away from the four major aspects of the legislation that Press Secretary Sanders outlined, the dialogue shifts to one of the Department of Treasury, the Department of Commerce, and the Department of Homeland Security. With Congressman Graham leading the initiative on the micro internal aspects of the bill he will need the support of a unified vision to advance his bargaining position. The lease of the space off the U.S. - Mexico border wall will be constructed similarly to a federal land lease. As a precondition to the Company retaining the rights to the solar panels assurances have been made to supplement the Treasury a percentage of revenues generated from the Quantum - Trump border wall. Again, at full capacity the Quantum - Trump border wall will generate some $291Billion dollars in energy at .12cents per kWh, which output load is variable depending upon conditions, and demand. Briefly, this precondition to the contractual framework for the Quantum - Trump border wall is necessary as it relates to the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act $1.5-2Trillion dollar price tag. Supplementing the Treasury at a fixed percentage of revenues until the Company, in collaboration with the Presidential Administration and Department of Commerce, reach full export capacity will offset the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act's deficit projections. This amounts to the Company cutting the Treasury a check for between $91Billion dollars to $100Billion dollars per year, allowing the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act to pay for itself. This allows the Company to highlight its business transition, and allows the Presidential Administration to highlight its international trade diplomacy with solutions on the size, scale, and magnitude necessary to execute key strategic regional objectives redirecting any value hyper-protectionist market friction. Again, this is the United States, and what makes this such a special place is that through debate the best solutions prevail. That being said, it is not the Company's position to cut out the contractors that submitted bids to build the border wall. In fact, President Trump during the DACA meeting outlined a "one year" time frame to build the wall. This ambitious time frame will require some Twenty Thousand contractors, foreman, electricians, and everything in between to meet that demand. The Company's size allows it to outline a strategic set of project guidelines on the scale necessary to allow for a high standard of execution. This will help Senator Graham attract the bipartisan support necessary to advance the Presidential Administrations initiatives on DACA allowing the Company to put in place the federal contractual framework necessary to execute this solution. Once the Company's federal contractual framework is in place the Department of Commerce will come into view structuring new trade deals through the Quantum - Trump border wall. For example, Senator John McCain was adamant that pharmaceutical drug imports from Canada be made available in the U.S. Currently, Canada pays just over .12 cents per kWh so if we bring that price point to a solid .12 cents per kWh we could potentially get $4Billion dollars worth of generic pharmaceuticals imported from Canada. Senator John McCain's logic is then reapplied to Guatemala, El Salvador, Honduras, and so forth. This legislation will be a landmark achievement for the Presidential Administration. It is anticipated that the trade policy derived from the Company and the Department of Commerce will play a vital role in helping Israel shape its new trade policy laying down the foundation for the Middle Eastern Union. At this point the DHS should be happy with the overall optics of the strategy, and it is the Company's expectation that various inquiries will have been concluded allowing President Trump to delegate the potential introduction of Quantum - Trump border walls reapplication in Israel. This bipartisan strategy allows the credit from the successful implementation of the solution to be equally divided. This allows the Company to emerge as the corporate leader amongst its peers helping the U.S. to reappear as a revitalized economic superpower. It is only through the strategic collaboration of the Company, Department of Treasury, Department of Commerce, and divine bipartisan guidance of the Presidential Administration that Press Secretary Sanders four key demands can be met. Senator Lindsey Graham has been keen to notice how the economic backdrop shapes the dialogue for DACA negotiations, and the Company is grateful for the opportunity to work with Senator Graham on this bipartisan initiative. When discussed in this context the Quantum - Trump border wall not only meets the four key legislative objectives, but provides the U.S. a path back to hegemony winning the hearts and minds of the American people.
