Episode 2: Rob and the Changing Scientist

5 Questions for Consideration

1. Rob speaks to his experience as a teacher and the need for empowerment and engagement. How important is this to driving performance and why?
2. Rob shared his experience working with leaders and how important this relationship is. Can you think of a time when you had a good relationship with your leader? How did this impact your ability to perform?
3. Rob recommends anyone looking to make a similar transition identifies what their applicable skills are as they consider this change. What are your top 5 strengths and how could they apply in a different context?
4. What role do you think confidence (or the lack of it) impacts the ability to take on a new challenge?
5. Rob talks about his original motivation for changing careers. Spend the next few minutes thinking about what you “want to be known for” in your career.
