Episode 9: The Patient Millennial

5 Questions for Consideration

1. David is hesitant to call himself a millennial. Why do you think that is?
2. What are common perceptions of millennials? What has been accurate or inaccurate, in your experience?
3. David shares advice he received about having patience. Why do you think this is important? Have you had an experience where you or someone else was not patient and it had a negative impact?
4. David talked about working with volunteers at nonprofits and their motivation for volunteering. How does the motivation of a person impact how they perform (or does it)?
5. If you were going to give advice to someone early in their career, what would it be?
