Behavior Policy

Camp Kata Kani has adapted a positive engagement policy. We focus on redirection, positive reinforcement, and conflict resolution as part of our approach to addressing behavioral concerns.

Camp policy is to keep campers engaged in activities and program elements. When required, campers may leave an activity for a “self-reflection” period, in order to refocus with the intent of returning to the camp activity. While in a self-reflection session, campers may work with a staff member to address the behavior, and resolve the issues leading to the behavior. Campers will be encouraged to return to the normal camp activity as quickly as they are able to.

The Director or Asst. Director may remove access to privileged activities such as Archery or Fishing in response to behavior which poses a safety concern.

Major behavioral incidents will be recorded in an incident report, reported to a parent or guardian, and other action taken as warranted. Behavioral incidents may include but are not limited to:

- Willful destruction of property
- Use of profanity, or inappropriate language
- Physical altercations with other campers/staff
- Insubordination or willful attempt to undermine staff authority.
- Self-harm, suicide ideation, suicide attempts
- Disregard of safety instructions
- Run-away/Out of Location
- Theft and invasion of privacy

- Threats towards campers or staff
- Incidents of bullying
- Possession of illegal substances or weapons
- Engaging in acts of a sexual manner with other campers, visitors, or staff
- Trespassing or inviting unauthorized persons on camp property

Our attempt is to keep campers engaged and participating in camp activities. Temporary removal from camp activities is used as a last resort, and is performed with the intention of helping campers redirect to returning to camp activities.

Campers will be held responsible for the willful destruction of property which may result in parent/guardians being billed for damages to camp property.

In the event of behavioral issues that disrupt the safety and well-being of other campers or staff, a parent or guardian may be contacted to arrange for the camper to leave camp for the remainder of the day.

In the event of extreme behavioral issues, or illegal activities, Camp Fire Illinois Prairie staff will contact local authorities and report activities.

In the event of a suicide ideation, a parent or guardian and appropriate medical personnel will be contacted. Camp Fire takes all suicide ideations seriously, and will take all appropriate action to ensure the safety of campers and staff.
