ADMINISTRATIVE AND LEADERSHIP EXPERIENCE

Director, Graduate Programs in Communication, University of North Dakota, 2015-Present

- Facilitated development of new doctoral program in International and Intercultural Communication including market research and strategic positioning.

Dean, College of Arts and Sciences, Concordia University Chicago, 2012 – 2014

Provided vision and leadership for initiation, development, implementation and evaluation of all programs and departments in college; leadership and encouragement of college faculty facilitating their pursuit of excellence in instruction, professional productivity, research and community service; built collaborations and development of the college, and serve as the chief administrative officer for the college.

Selected Accomplishments:

- Inaugurated First Year Freshman Experience in Noetic Learning, a year-long academic classroom experience in arts, humanities and the social and behavioral sciences including integration with community engagement and service learning, art gallery membership, student mentors, and student life student success coaches. Program enhanced student retention, student university experience and student exposure to university faculty, staff, community leaders, and artistic venues.
- Expanded on-line education, development of a low residency dramatic writing program, and development of a program in art therapy. On-line education in the Arts and Sciences doubled, low residency dramatic writing first in the area and allows professionals to pursue M.F.A. in the summer using underused classrooms and residence halls. Art therapy program provides connection to professional graduate degree in art therapy and draws on strengths of three academic departments.
- Secured gifts of aesthetic development for the West Annex Gallery providing the College of Arts and Sciences with a visual center, enhanced inclusivity featuring non-western art, enhanced faculty morale and provided artistically enhanced meeting space for faculty and student groups and events.
- Facilitated implementation of new STEM programs in Health and Nursing. New programs increased enrollment in Natural Sciences majors. Connected disadvantaged first generation college students to educational opportunities that lead to middle class and upper middleclass professions.
