

A TEXAS CORPORATION

Greetings:

As a leader, you've earned the responsibility to positively influence individual lives. We would like to help you make strides in improving the overall health consciousness of your organization. We are Educator Well-Health, Inc., a company designed to work with organizations in providing leadership training, team building, health promotion and wellness program development and implementation. Health, wellness awareness and implementation are pressing issues and concerns within the American legislature and action needs to be taken to aid Americans in developing healthier lifestyles. Educator Well-Health's belief is that health awareness is essential to the viability of any thriving organization and because of this belief, Educator Well-Health will host The Organizational Wellness Conference for Leadership/Team Building Health/Wellness Promotion in March, 2017 and would like to invite you to be apart of this exciting event!

As leaders within our perspective organizations, we must start with a decision to be healthy through diet and exercise. With that decision, we can raise the awareness of health and physical fitness through educational and nutritional seminars, group trainings, boot camps, etc. for our employees and co-workers so they too can learn to make healthier decisions in order to increase the overall productivity within the organization. Educator Well-Health, Inc. is prepared to aid you in that challenge.

The Organizational Wellness Conference for Leadership/Team Building Health/Wellness Promotion is intended to draw focused and dedicated individuals with a desire to change the culture of their organizations. Usable plans will be developed during this time for program implementation. Please review the enclosed information for The Organizational Wellness Conference for Leadership/Team Building Health/Wellness Promotion commencing March 27-29, 2017 in Galveston, Texas.
