VIVAT, VIVAT, VIVAT!

On Tuesday, October 16th a historic joint table lodge was helped between Arizona No. 2 F&AM and King Solomon No. 14 P.H.A. In attendance were both Grand Masters - Most Worshipful Craig Gross, Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Free & Accepted Masons of Arizona, and Most Worshipful Timothy Seay, Grand Master of the Most Worshipful Prince Hall Grand Lodge of Free & Accepted Masons of the State of Arizona. The evening was opened by a toast from Jason Holbrook, Worshipful Master of Arizona Lodge No. 2 and closed by a toast from Larry Dickens, Worshipful Master of King Solomon Lodge No. 14. The guest speaker was Most Worshipful Tim Seay who spoke about the importance of Civic Engagement and important it is for us as Freemasons to get involved in our communities and governments. Most Worshipful Craig Gross followed up with comments about the importance of standing Tall as Freemasons! Brothers in attendance received a pocket version of the Constitution Embossed with the seal of both Grand Lodges and signed by both Grand Masters. Final thought of the evening: How good it is for brothers to dwell in Unity

During the table lodge on the 16th, Jean-Claude Malterre told the story of this American Flag that was in World War 1 and World War 2. This century-old American flag was taken to France by an American Mason and soldier with the AEF 1917-1919.

On D-Day, June 6, 1944, it landed on Omaha Beach with his son, also a Mason who, then, carried it through France, the battle of the Bulge in Bastogne, Belgium (December 1944), at the liberation of a Concentration Camp, and then to Berlin (1945).

Next month, Jean-Claude is going to France to visit Star Spangled Banner Lodge which was started in World War II by French and American Soldiers. He is going to present this flag to them as a token of friendship.

Prehistoric Masonry Significant Relics from Ancient Ruins

Did Masonry Exist Among the Aztecs? Relics that have been unearthed engraved with Masonic Emblems.

Arizona Republic 12 March 1896

First Edition, Page 1

That masonry is of ancient origin there can be no doubt; but history does not state that masonry existed among the Aztecs or Toltecs, the prehistoric tribes that thousands of years in the dim past flourished in Arizona. It is true that scientists have been able to collect but little knowledge of these extinct tribes, for the only reliable evidence of the prehistoric existences of the races buried in the oblivion of ages are the relics that from time to time have been unearthed in the mounds strewn over the valley and territory. These ruins in themselves are indisputable in proving that at one time a tribe of a fair degree of intelligences inhabited the country, but the reason the total destruction of the tribe is purely guess work, although many plausible conjectures have been advanced. The length of time that the race inhabited the country, of course, is unknown, and it can only be a supposition at the most that the people always lived here or where a nomadic tribe that settled here- the latter being, though, very improbable. At any rate there are evidences that masonry existed and it is a matter for scientists to worry over.

Seventeen years ago Bud Cummings of Temple and another gentleman made a partial excavation of one of the numerous mounds near that city and were greatly surprised when they unearthed a sea shell on which was worked in perfect relief a square and compass. The shell had evidently been worn as a charm around the neck as a hole was through the shell. The relic was subsequently presented to Dr. Thibodo, formerly of this city, who prizes it; very highly.

John Tait, superintendent of the orange orchard, is greatly interested in prehistoric relics and is always seeking to add to his collection. About a year ago he was in the Indian village east of the city for the purpose of collecting relics from the Indians. He met a squaw and after hard work made her understand what he was seeking. She entered her habitation and from the ground dug up an olla filled with ornaments both prehistoric and the handiwork of their tribe. The ornaments were attached to a string and in looking them over Mr. Tait's attention was riveted on a small charm of red sandstone, on which was plainly engraved the square and compass. He purchased the relic and it is the most valued of his collection. A prominent Mason a short while ago offered him a fabulous price for the emblem, but he would not part with it.

Mr. Tait also has in his possession a masonic keystone which he bought from a Maricopa Indian. The peculiarity of the latter relic is that no one has ever been able to tell from what it is made, though of undoubted masonic significance.

C.J. Dyer of this city at one time had a valuable collection of prehistoric relics which he disposed of. Among the collection was an accurate masonic plumb which is now in the possession of Mr. Tait.

Masonry, beyond a doubt, existed in the early ages and some writers maintain that it derived its origin from the "Dionysiac Fraternity," an association which was formed in Asian Minor by the architects and builders engaged in the construction of temples at a time when the Greeks migrated from Athens.

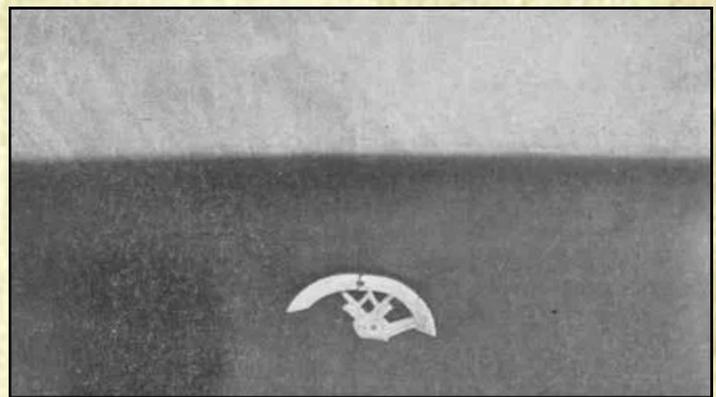

The association is supposed to have been in existence in Tyre when Solomon undertook the building of the temple and the story runs that the fraternity sent a band of workmen from Tyre to assist in that work. Free Masonry, according to this account, is said to have been originally organized by the head of the band, and in this way is explained the great prominence which is given to Solomon's temple in the rituals and symbols of the order.

Writers, however, differ as to the origin of Masonry, but well informed Masons content themselves with supposing that the order originated in the associations which were formed during the middle ages by masons and builders.

On the other hand, some writers aver that modern Free Masonry never had any connection whatever with the Free Masonry of other ages, but was originally founded by Ashmole and some of his friends as a piece of mystification, its symbols and signs having been borrowed partly from the Knights Templars and partly from the Rosicrucians.

The square and compass may be of comparative modern origin as an emblem of the order- certain it is that they are tools used in the present age, but the finding of these prehistoric relics in the ancient Aztec ruins have a significance.

It is not presumed, however, that the Aztecs were of African or Asiatic origin, for to take the ruins of the vast waterways, etc., in the valley as a criterion it would show the tribe to have been the inferiors, intellectually, of the eastern races. If Masonry flourished in Solomon's time, then the Aztecs must have had some connection with the races of Solomon's country. Still it is only hypothesis and food for the scientist to reflect over the discovery of Masonic emblems in the ruins of the Aztecs.

GEORGE WASHINGTON MEMORIAL

The George Washington Masonic National Memorial stands as the most distinguished monument to Washington ever build by a private organization.

Erected in the 1920s and 30s, it soars 333 feet as a beacon of Light and knowledge, educating and inspiring all who visit it. Recognized in 2015 as a National Historic Landmark, the Memorial is one of the most impressive and iconic buildings in the area around our nation's capital. Our new fundraising endeavor, The Landmark Century Campaign, aims to support a thorough restoration of the Memorial. And we can help!

Today, the Memorial is a museum like no other in the world. Everything we do revolves around our vision: "to inspire humanity through education to emulate and promote the virtues, character and vision of George Washington, the Man, the Mason, and Father of our Country." Open seven days a week, the Memorial offers detailed exhibits and guided tours that teach the general public about George Washington, his life and virtues, and the role that Freemasonry played throughout his life. Further, the Memorial is an important space for the performing arts, social gatherings, public events, and educational seminars. And, of course, it is an active

Masonic temple, housing two Craft lodges and regularly hosting visiting lodges from around the country. The Memorial is a central hub connecting Masons to one another, and connecting the Craft to the public, our nation, and our world

For the past decade, the Memorial Association has devoted tremendous energy and resources to the renovation of the Memorial. Major exhibits have been added. Interiors have been repaired and repainted. Lighting has been updated. But the most considerable work is the top-to-bottom restoration of the building itself—the first such renovation since the Memorial was completed nearly a century ago.

Beginning at the Memorial's pyramid level, we have begun a multi-year project to perform all needed structural repairs. Stone by stone, are repointing the mortar and protecting the building from water penetration. When completed, the building will be in better than new condition.

Having a tree planted on the grounds of the George Washington Masonic National Memorial is an excellent way to honor an important individual in your life. And it's also a great way to express thanks to an organization, such as a Lodge or Chapter. For a donation of $750, the tree will be cared for in perpetuity, and a handsome stone marker placed near the tree will communicate your dedication.

Your generous help is essential in reaching that goal.

The Society of Washington Lodges is for regular Lodges (recognized by the Grand Lodges of the United States) who are committed to supporting the Memorial.
There is a one-time donation of $2,500.00, which can be applied toward Patronage.

Masonic Trivia

In the 1950's Gila Valley No. 9 F & AM Masonic Lodge had several cotton farmers amongst its members. As a fund raiser they each donated the profits from a row of cotton to the Lodge. In 1953 it netted $371.50 and $198.27 in 1954

At the beginning of the 20th century, the expansion of commerce between Great Britain and the United States Brought to the American colony in London an increasing number of business and professional men, Americans had been joining English lodges In May of 1909 a dispensation was issued by United Grand Lodge of England for the organization of a Blue Lodge in London, United Kingdom to be composed entirely of Americans. The dispensation was granted by the Duke of Connaught of England. The Duke and President William Howard Taft were made the honorary members of the Lodge and America Lodge No. 3368 was consecrated on Thursday June 3, 1909, at Freemasons Hall

Mr. J.A. Kurtz's house in Oil City, Pennsylvania was burglarized in 1893 and among the items stolen was a valuable watch and a Knight Templar charm. It was the loss of the latter that he chiefly regretted, costing him over $100. He relocated to Phoenix, Arizona and at a meeting of Arizona Lodge #2 Free and Accepted Masons in November of 1901 he was sitting beside a member who had been recently made a Mason whom he engaged in conversation. Mr. Kurtz mentioned his being made a mason and passing through various degrees of the Commandery in Oil City. The new member, Mr. Bridewell slapped himself on the knee and asked if he had ever lost a Knights Templar charm. It was then relayed that Bridewell had found that gold watch and charm under some rubbish in a corral. He was not then a mason and the significance of it was not brought to him, neither did he know Mr. Kurtz, but now that he had become acquainted he remembered that that was the name engraved on the back of the charm. He had given the watch to his brother and the charm, being of no apparent value, was given to the children to play with. Thankfully both items were taken very good care of and the items were returned to Mr. Kurtz as good as new

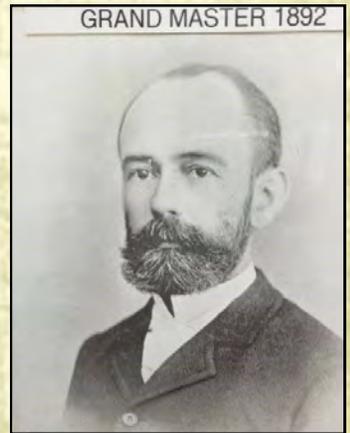

Something was foul during the New Mexico-Arizona football game in 1946. After a long hard fought game, the Lobos of New Mexico tied the game with a very late touchdown. The UA Coach threw a verbal onion at the official timekeeper of the game thinking that the game should have been called before the TD. His protest was backed by the Arizona fans who saw the game, the players who played it, and the press which analyzed it. It seems that just after Arizona scored their second touchdown in the fourth quarter and had kicked off to the Lobos, Virgil Marsh, acting Wildcat captain asked officials how much time was left in the game. He was told by the official time keeper that there were four minutes left. Then before play took up, the field judge,

Herbert Greer said the official timekeeper was wrong and that the correct playing time left was only two minutes. It seems that it was then that the coach noticed an empty bottle of whisky bottle on the table of the official timekeeper. Herbert Greer, was the only correct, or honest official on the field that day. The men of Thunderbird Lodge No. 48 initiated Bro. Greer a couple years later in 1955. He was elected Master in 1959 and Master of Arizona Research Lodge No. 1 in 1963. He was elected Grand Master of Grand Lodge of Free & Accepted Masons in Arizona in

John M. Ormsby was vice president of the Valley Bank in Tucson, Arizona having come to Arizona in 1887 to become manager of their office at Tucson. For twenty years he remained with this corporation. He resigned his position with the Western Union to become cashier of the Arizona National Bank, of Tucson, and for sixteen years was a prominent figure in the commercial and financial life of the Old Pueblo. . During his long residence in Arizona, Mr. Ormsby was a leader in all affairs pertaining to the educational development of the state and served as a member of the Board of Regents under four different governors. He was the second secretary appointed to the University of Arizona, and his work has been instrumental in the upbuilding of this institution. Despite his activity as an educator, banker and businessman Mr. Ormsby is best known for his part in the fraternal life of Arizona, having been Grand Master of Grand Lodge of Free & Accepted Masons in Arizona in 1892, Grand High Priest, Grand Commander of the Knights Templar of Arizona, and six times he was Master of Tucson Lodge 4, F. & A. This is a picture of Nicholas and Virginia Earp, parents of Virgil, Wyatt and Morgan Earp of Tombstone Arizona Fame.

If you blow the picture up, you will notice that on Nicholas Earp's left lapel, there is a pin that is the square and compass Related to Grand Lodge of Free & Accepted Masons in Arizona, their son Virgil Earp had petitioned for membership in King Solomon Lodge No. 5 in Arizona, two months previous to the activities of the OK Corral while the Lodge was under dispensation, but like many on this day, was rejected for membership even though the investigation committee came back with a favorable report on him In my thoughts only, this may have been due to his involvement with the local taverns and the volatile situations going on during this time frame.

In Wyoming, for many years you could not gain admission in to a Masonic lodge if you owned an establishment that sold intoxicating liquors

The historic 1912 Tempe National Bank building survives as Tempe's most tangible evidence of an institution that made significant contributions to the broad patterns of community history and development. The Tempe National Bank was established on January 4, 1901, by pioneer Tempe businessmen and agriculturalists in a demonstration of optimism and commitment to the future of the community. It was on January 4, 1901, that the stockholders assembled for the first time. They got together in the offices of Charles Woolf, a pioneer attorney. And when they emerged, they had created the Tempe National Bank.'

The first stockholders included Carl Hayden, of the family that had settled the town, C. G. Jones was elected president; A. C. Ozanne vice-president; and W. H. Wilbur cashier, at a salary of $75 a month. In virtually no time at all, Tempe National Bank was helping to irrigate the desert with its own variety of liquid assets." Cyrus Grant Jones, first president of the Tempe National Bank and alfalfa farmer in Tempe was Master of Temple Lodge No. 15 in 1902 and Grand Master of Grand Lodge of Free & Accepted Masons in Arizona in 1907. Charles Woolf, the pioneer attorney was also Master of Temple Lodge No. 15 and Grand Master a little later in 1917. Carl Hayden, one of the most important pioneer citizens of the Territory was

In 1905 Arizona welcomed its first sewing machine salesman to the Territory. It was sewing machines that brought Carey B. Wilson to Arizona Territory from Texas as his older brother, a district agent for the Singer Co., need a salesman in the Gila Valley. From Solomonville, the 19 year old salesman regularly hit the road for distant places like Cochise and Ft. Thomas in his wagon powered by two indian ponies, in which he carried one or two sewing machines. Indian and Mexican women were some of this best customers, although no one very paid cash for the $59 to $89 machines, instead they paid in installments, and it was his job to make collections along his traveling sales route. Avoiding commenting on his sewing machine selling ability, he was fond of saying after moving into the life insurance business, "A Fellow once told me that if i could sell insurance for that long a time, I could make a living selling secondhand coffins! When Arizona gained statehood in 1912, Wilson was appointed chief deputy clerk of Superior Court in Cochise County, later serving as US Commissioner, handling over 10,000 cases. Carey B. Wilson was raised in 1921 at Paradise Valley Silver Trowel Lodge No.29, F & A.M., served as Master in 1927 and secretary for 23 years. He served as Grand Master of Grand Lodge of Free & Accepted Masons in Arizona in 1955. Other accolades include Illustrious Master of Phoenix Council No. 4, High Priest of Arizona Chapter No. 1 RAM and Commander of Phoenix Commandery N. 3 KT. He was Grand Commander of the Grand Commandery, KT of Arizona and

After a Century in the Ice, Maud Has Returned Home To Norway. The polar exploration ship survived freezing, sinking, and seizure by creditors. On June 7, 1916, polar explorer Roald Amundsen christen his new ship, Maud, after the Queen of Norway. Maud first left home in 1918, carrying Amundsen and three crew members northwards. The plan was to freeze the ship into the ice cap, where it would serve as a scientific research station and eventually drift all the way to the pole. The ship didn't cooperate, "Maud spent several years in the Arctic ice without reaching the North Pole, and thus the expedition never got the deserved public attention."

Amundsen tried again, hatching a plan that involved both airplanes and boats, but that failed, too. No attention means no money, and in 1925, Maud was seized by creditors.

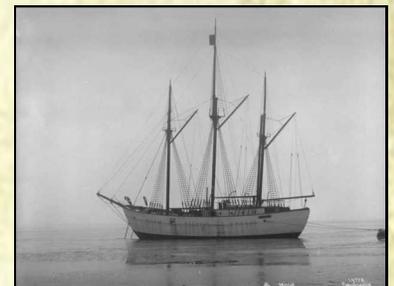

The explorer did finally reach the North Pole, making it there by plane in 1926. But the loss of Maud to bankruptcy was "a big tragedy for him as a person," Wanggaard writes. "He died a bitter and sad man," disappearing in 1928 while trying to help rescue the crew of a downed airship.

Although Maud never made it to the North Pole, it did spend most of its life in the ice, either stuck, sunk, or conscripted into labor. By 1927, Maud was moored in Cambridge Bay, off the coast of Nunavut, and used as a warehouse and wireless station. In the winter of 1931, it sank. People salvaged material from it, and law enforcement eventually dynamited its stern, in order to remove the fuel tanks.

In 1990, the Norwegian municipality of Asker, where Vollen is located, bought Maud's remains from the Hudson Bay Company for one dollar. August 18, 2018, over a century after it first set out—Maud finally sailed back into Vollen.

Brother Roald Amundsen, Norwegian explorer of polar regions, is recognized as the first person, without dispute, as having reached both poles. Roald Amundsen Lodge No. 6-48, Sacramento, California, was named after Brother Roald

Scotland Trip in 2019

Brethren,

Many of you heard about a second trip to Scotland!!!

I'm planning a trip to Roslyn Lodge 606 and Roslyn Chapel in May of 2019. We will be putting on a 3rd Degree for Roslyn Lodg3 606. Roslyn Chapel demonstrating the various symbols and how they relate to Freemasonry. I'm in the process working with WB Geoffrey from Roslyn 606 organizing this beautified and one in the lifetime trip. No Masonic Jurisdiction from the US has ever put on a degree in Scotland; Arizona Masonry will be the first. If you are interested in traveling to Scotland in 2019, please let me know as we are taking reservations. Furthermore, if you are interested in participating in the degree, please let me know, we will hold additions for the several parts as we want to make sure our ritual is "Top Notch."

You will need to procure your own costume and tuxedo. We are in the process of obtaining dispensation from both jurisdictions and more details to follow.
