DR. NADINE KASLOW

The Nia Project

Dr. Kaslow is a professor and Vice Chair for Faculty Development in the Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences at Emory University School of Medicine, Chief Psychologist at Grady Memorial Hospital, Director of the Psychology Postdoctoral Fellowship Program in Professional Psychology, and Chair of the Emory Medical Care Foundation Research Committee. Dr. Kaslow holds joint appointments in the Departments of Emergency Medicine and Pediatrics, as well as in the Rollins School of Public Health. Dr. Kaslow chose clinical psychology because she loves to listen and support people as they talk about the challenges they face in their lives. She is passionately dedicated to empowering children and adults alike to cope effectively with these challenges and to lead productive and meaningful lives.

The Grady Nia Project's mission is to empower abused, suicidal African American women to access behavioral health services, find a new sense of purpose, lead more meaningful lives, and affirm their commitment to living a violence-free life.
