INNOVATE OR DIE

This is a hands-on course and provides intensive specialized facilitation training. Innovation is challenging, complex, and difficult. Growing the capacity to facilitate innovation projects within your organization, whether you are a for-profit company, or a non-profit organization, is essential for survival and growth. The cliché is true: Innovate or Die. Innovation process management requires a special set of skills that are not common. Skilled facilitation makes the difference between ineffective efforts and a successful introduction of a product, a service, or an internal change that matters.

BRING THESE VALUABLE TOOLS IN-HOUSE

All these activities take facilitation knowledge and skill. Ideally, an internal facilitator of innovation knows a framework for creative problem solving, understands the basic steps in innovation, and knows how to execute specific tools and techniques that can advance teams through projects. Having these skills inside your organization eliminates or reduces the need for expensive outside assistance. Further, the innovation you create will help you maximize your opportunities for growth and improvement.
