Doss CCSD New Administrative Consultant

The Doss Consolidated Common School District (CCSD) Board of Trustees on January 22, 2018, selected and hired a new Administrative Consultant: Dr. Benjamin Johnson

Dr. Benjamin Johnson has 24 years of experience in public education and an Ed.D. in Ed. Leadership and Curriculum and Instruction. Dr. Johnson currently serves as the Department Chair for Languages Other Than English (LOTE) and is a High School Spanish teacher for Tyler Independent School District. Dr. Johnson will begin his tenure in Doss mid-February 2018.

Dr. Johnson began his career in education as a Spanish teacher in a small school district in Arizona. Since then he has taught nearly every grade and every core subject. In 1994 he began his administrative career and has served large and small schools. As assistant superintendent in Natalia, TX, he turned around two unacceptable schools and the entire school district from near unacceptable to recognized in three years.

As a private consultant he has mentored and coached multitudes of school instructional leaders to increase student learning throughout the state of Texas. Some of his clients include the Texas Education Agency, University of Texas at San Antonio, The U.S. Army Medical School, and Texas State University. Doss CCSD and the community welcome Dr. Johnson's experience.

His nationally popular writings on student engagement, differentiation, assessment, effective questioning, and implementation of technology can be found on Edutopia.org. Dr. Johnson wrote a nationally acclaimed book, "Teaching Students to Dig Deeper" for teachers to help prepare students for College and Career Readiness which was published in November of 2012 and republished in 2017. One reviewer of his book stated, "Ben Johnson is the Malcom Gladwell of Education."

Dr. Johnson is a visionary educational leader and change agent with a mission to help students learn more by increasing college and career readiness. He challenges the traditional instructional models with effective learning models and seeks to incorporate modern tools and technology in the business of teaching and learning. Please join the Doss CCSD Board, Employees, and Staff in welcoming Dr. Benjamin Johnson to the District and Community.
