

The World Affairs Council of Greater Hampton Roads, Old Dominion University Economics Club, and sponsor Towne Bank Presents

To Trade or Not to Trade: Globalization vs. Nationalism

Dr. Garten will discuss the economic and financial repercussions of President Trump's first 100 days. The President has called into question long established global free-trade policies, focusing on domestic industries and production. What could the repercussions for the US economy, employment and export sectors be in this new economic world order? Will other countries retaliate against this "beggar-thy-neighbor" policy?

To learn more about these issues and more, join us for a lively discussion with guest speaker Dr. Jeffrey Garten, who will be interviewed by Dr. Jeff Tanner, Dean of the Strome College of Business at ODU.

Thursday, March 30, 2017

Slover Library, Downtown Norfolk

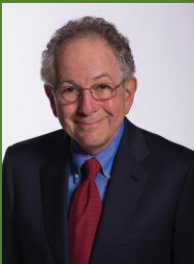

Reception: 5:30 pm, Program: 6:00 pm

World Affairs Council student, JWAC, educator, military and NATO members: $10

Members of the World Affairs Council or Economics Club: $15

Non-members: $20

Register at: www.hrwc.org or mail to the address below

Jeffrey E. Garten currently teaches courses on the global economy at the Yale School of Management, where he was formerly the dean. He has held senior positions in the Nixon, Ford, Carter, and Clinton administrations and was a managing director of Lehman Brothers and the Blackstone Group on Wall Street. His latest book, From Silk to Silicon: The Story of Globalization Through Ten Extraordinary Lives, was published in March 2016 (HarperCollins) and the paperback, with an extended new preface on the future of globalization, will be published in March 2017. (www.jeffreygarten.com)

There will be book sales and a signing before and after the program of his latest book.

We would like to thank the City of Norfolk Arts and Humanities Commission for a grant in support of this event

