Photography is a practice that can draw us closer to God. It is a process that requires a necessity of shadows to reveal the light, much like the spiritual journey. Nature is a place where we can discover God in unmistakable ways, and photography is a tool that can assist us in a differing kind of seeing. If we enter nature through the photographic lens deeply enough, we can begin to see and experience God in ways we never have before.

Our time together will consist of prayerfulness, playfulness, and instruction. No prior knowledge of photography is necessary...a curiosity and a deeper seeking is all that is required. (More details on-line)

Leader: Zack Maser is a musician, a photographer, spiritual director, and grief work facilitator. He completed his formal spiritual direction training in 2015 through Oasis Ministries, and he is currently working on a degree in social work at Millersville University with the call of specializing in grief counseling. With a life shaped by profound loss, Zack has been deeply invited into the grace and peace of God's presence, and he believes there is a divine gratitude in grief and loss.
